Both sides optimistic

Walkout at Garden State expected to end today

By ED PRATHER

P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — The two-week walkout at the Garden State Paper Company is expected to end today when strikers vote on a new pay proposal offered by the company Friday.

Pat Mason, president of United Paperworkers International Union, Local 1979, said Friday night that he is "very optimistic" about today's vote, which will be taken at 10 a.m. at the union's hall in Pomona.

The union's negotiating committee will recommend that the proposal be accepted, said Mason.

The proposal was hammered out early Friday morning following an all-night bargaining session by negotiators.

The two-year pact reportedly contains a 10 per cent raise for the first year and a 10.5 per cent increase for the second year, in addition to substantial increases in fringe benefits for the 115 members of the union.

Strikers on the picket line Friday were quietly optimistic about the proposal and the probable end of what was described as a "good strike." The workers' previous contract expired May 1.

There were no reported incidents of trouble during the walkout.

The strike has created shortages of recycled newsprint throughout California and Arizona.

The Pomona plant, one of three operated by the company, was opened here in 1967. The company produces about 10 per cent of the nation's newsprint, according to a company spokesman.

At the time of the walkout the Pomona plant was operating around the clock at full capacity.

Should the strikers vote to accept the company proposal today, the plant is expected to be back in operation immediately.

Garden State Paper Complay is a subsidiary of Media General Inc., based in Richmond, Va.

DeFreeze killed himself, Noguchi says

6 SLA members chose to die, coroner reports

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — When six members of the Symbionese Liberation Army were killed in a fiery shoot-out with police one week ago, Donald DeFreeze, twice wounded and gasping for air, fired a bullet into his right temple, a coroner's report indicated Friday.

DeFreeze, known as "General Field Marshal Cinque" of the SLA, saw the end coming as fire engulfed their hideout and five of his comrades already lay dead beside him, burning and riddled by police bullets.

The conclusions were reached by Los Angeles County Coroner Thomas Noguchi, who said he was convinced the small SLA band "behaved fanatically" and chose to die instead of surrendering.

"They (the SLA members) were fully prepared to die, and this was evidenced by their decision to allow their one hostage (Mrs. Christine Johnson) to go free while they remained," Noguchi said.

According to Noguchi, Nancy Ling Perry and Camilla Hall were the first to die in the gunbattle with more than 400 police, FBI and other officers.

Miss Perry was wounded in the spinal cord, lungs and other organs and died within minutes, while Miss Hall died instantly when a bullet struck her in the center of her forehead.

Noguchi said the other four SLA members managed to survive for a time by crawling under the home's foundation and firing at police through a ventilation opening as flames began to engulf the house.

Three of the band, Patricia Soltysik, Angela Atwood and William Wolfe, then succumbed to "noxious gases from the fire" and DeFreeze, already wounded and seeing his comrades dead, apparently committed suicide. The melted plastic of their gas masks were found with the bodies.

The coroner's report was the latest revelation of the bizarre case in which three SLA fugitives, including Patricia Hearst, were being sought.

Miss Hearst Friday ignored—or perhaps had not heard—pleas from her sisters and fiancé to give up and save her life as police grimly pressed a hunt for the heiress and two of her companions.

HOW 'CINQUE' DIED

Los Angeles County Coroner Thomas Noguchi points to his right temple indicating where Donald DeFreeze, SLA field marshal "Cinque," shot and killed himself at the climax of last week's massive shootout in south Los Angeles. Powder burns on the side of DeFreeze's head showed that the .38 caliber gunshot wound that killed him was self-inflicted. "He elected to die," said Noguchi.

First holiday travel since energy crisis

'Traffic outburst' seen for weekend

By United Press International

Earlybird vacationers streamed onto the highways Friday for the first big spring-summer season holiday weekend since the energy crisis put a crimp in motoring habits.

State highway patrols, city police and toll road officials across the nation geared for a surge of traffic during the three-day Memorial Day weekend and a spokesman for the California Highway Patrol predicted "a real traffic outburst."

The National Safety Council, however, trimmed its traffic fatality estimate to the lowest figure for a three-day Memorial Day holiday in eight years. It attributed the reduction to "energy-saving lower speeds and less travel."

The council estimated that between 450 and 550 persons would be killed in traffic during the 78-hour period between 6 p.m. local time Friday and midnight Monday.

It said up to 26,000 other persons might suffer disabling injuries but said the toll of both dead and injured could be cut sharply if motorists "take the time to buckle their safety belts."

Dr. James D. Gregory, head of the National Highway Traffic Administration, said a good goal for the nation for the first long weekend of warm weather would be a death toll below 400.

Last year 539 persons died during the three-day Memorial Day weekend. The record toll for a three-day Memorial Day holiday was 597 in 1969 and the all-time Memorial Day traffic toll was 628 in 1968, when the nation observed a four-day outing.

California Highway Patrol Commissioner Walter Padinski said a combination of adequate gasoline supplies and good weather could push traffic to record volumes.

"We look for a real traffic outburst," he said. "Motorists have developed a certain complacency, driving in the shadow of the energy crisis for months."

There could be a serious accident problem over the weekend, he said, if drivers "feel all reins are off" and disregard the new 55 miles per hour speed limits.

Request by prosecutor Jaworski

Supreme Court showdown urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski called Friday for a Supreme Court showdown that may make constitutional history over President Nixon's refusal to surrender additional Watergate cover-up evidence.

If the Supreme Court decides the issue, it would appear to be the first major court statement on the presidential contention that it does not have to give information to other branches of government.

Evidence about Watergate was part of two other U.S. district court cases Friday. One involves the possibility that Judge Gerhard Gesell may dismiss conspiracy charges against two presidential aides if the White House does not produce evidence relating to the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

In the other, Judge George L. Hart ordered former Nixon fund-raiser Maurice H. Stans to give a Watergate grand jury 17 folders of documents, rejecting his claim that they were private papers. Hart reserved his decision on a claim that some papers were protected by executive privilege.

Nixon's "stonewall" attitude—a term taken from the White House transcripts—was criticized by Vice President Gerald R. Ford, who said (on ABC News) that further refusal to release documents could increase the votes for impeachment.

The White House was also involved in controversy with the House Judiciary Committee. Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, said the chairman, Rep. Peter W. Rodino, and the counsel for its impeachment probe, John Doar, used "diversionary tactics" in saying the transcripts of conversations that Nixon released were not accurate.

But it was the possibility of a Supreme Court decision that was, in Jaworski's phrase, of "imperative public importance." Nixon has said the confidentiality of presidential conversations is a tradition as old as the Republic and, in discussing a Senate request for documents, indicated that a decision may be inevitable.

"Perhaps," he told a March 15, 1973 news conference, "this is the time to have the highest court in the land make a definitive decision with regard to the matter."

Jaworski's request came just an hour after Nixon's lawyers announced they would appeal Judge John J. Sirica's ruling that tapes and documents involving 64 presidential conversations be released for use in the September trial of six Nixon aides on charges of involvement with the Watergate cover-up. The court is winding up its spring term, and occasionally will take major cases out of the hands of the appeals court.

Navy cheaters linked to EM who wanted 'guys to pass'

ANAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — An enlisted quartermaster "who just likes to see the guys pass" supplied exam answers to one sixth of the U.S. Naval Academy's sophomore class on Tuesday, a faculty source said Friday.

The faculty member, who requested anonymity, said answers to a navigation exam were given to 150 sophomores—approximately one-sixth of the class—by the quartermaster who "was not in it for the money. He just likes to see the guys pass."

The exam results were voided and all 900 sophomores will retake it May 29.

The source said "if it was just a handful of people, they would have been dismissed immediately. But 150 of them—that's one-sixth of the sophomore class and that creates headaches."

The leaked information permitted the students to work out the complicated two- and three-page computations in advance, as well as to fill in the multiple-choice answers, the faculty member said.

He said that shortly before the three-hour exam began a midshipman told a faculty member that "the gouge is out," meaning the answers had been leaked.

He said the course workbook, "Nautical Almanac," was immediately examined and in about 150 cases it was found to contain notations relevant to the exam.

The Academy has not said if any action will be taken against the students. But Cmdr. Robert Lewis, public affairs officer, said enlisted instructors were being questioned.

"We do have enlisted instructors but the investigation deals with how the exam was compromised and until it is completed we will have nothing to say about it."

Vice Admiral William P. Mack, academy superintendent said 50 to 60 of the sophomores were detained after the Tuesday exam but later were permitted to join the rest of the Midshipmen on furlough.

Lewis said the academy's basic honor concept is "midshipmen do not lie, cheat or steal and the brigade will not tolerate those who do."

rector of parks and recreation, were City Administrator Jerrold Gonce and Pomona Chamber of Commerce officials Norm Williamson, Robert Lewis, Charles Brasswell, Brent Hunter and David Crimston.

While in Sacramento, Lepire received from Assemblyman Bill Lancaster a quitclaim deed for more than six acres at Pacific State Hospital that will be used to build a new fire station and training facility.

The transfer of the property to the city was approved by the state legislature some time ago, but the city was unable to move ahead with the project until the necessary paper work had been done.

Korpsak said he now predicted the project would be completed by July of next year.

Gonce said that once the fire complex is built, Pacific State will realize savings of about $100,000 "by not worrying about fire services."

City officials held seven meetings Tuesday and Thursday in San Francisco and Sacramento to discuss various valley and city problems with state and federal officials.

Lepire said he believed he had accomplished more on the trips than he had anticipated, "particularly in areas where the most we had hoped for was getting information."

At one of the meetings, officials of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) said they would give to the city title to 25 federally owned houses which will be razed and the properties used by the city for open space and greenbelts.

The mayor said he expected he would be making similar trips in the future, especially where follow-up meetings are in order.

State aid for bike trails looms as possibility

By TONY NAVARRO

P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — The chances of getting state funding for a regional bicycle trail system increased considerably following a meeting in Sacramento between city and state officials, Major Ray J. Lepire said Friday.

Joseph Korpsak, executive director of the Valley Association of Cities (VAC), quoted Russell Porter, in charge of grants for the state parks and recreation department as saying "the project will hold up very well" when an application is made for funding.

As a result of the encouragement received from the state capital, Korpsak said an application would be filed by July 1 for $158,000.

The system, which would be built for recreational purposes, would involve the counties of Los Angeles and San Bernardino and the cities of Pomona, Claremont, La Verne, Montclair, Upland and Walnut.

The system has been in the planning stages since 1972.

Lepire said the state parks and recreation officials at the Thursday meeting initially were "very negative" about the proposal but changed their minds after a full presentation by Korpsak.

The mayor said the state officials said the project would receive higher priority for funding than had been previously indicated.

Korpsak said development of the 26-mile trail system would probably be complete by the summer of the next calendar year. Total cost is estimated at more than $200,000, with some of the funding supplied by the county and city governments.

Five hangars planned

Expansion of Chino Airport to include plane museum

CHINO — The Chino Airport will soon gain as tenants the Southern California Edison's air force and a museum of World War II planes.

And a building firm is proposing to construct five 22-unit hangars for leasing to private plane owners.

Edison Co. officials plan to build an 8,000-square-foot hangar on two acres of house six helicopters and an airplane, said County Supervisor Robert Townsend. The new facility will cost about $300,000.

The air helicopters are now based at Fullerton Airport and the fixed wing plane at Ontario International Airport.

"This constitutes a major development on the airport and is indicative of the increased business it is able to generate," said Townsend.

The Edison structure will be located near a hangar being remodeled to house an air museum. The museum, headed by Ed Maloney, is about 75 per cent completed and may open to the public within the next several months.

It will have on display a German "buzz bomb," Japanese "suicide rocket," and many fighters and bombers.

The museum, now located in Orange County, was previously operated at Ontario International Airport. One of its bomber planes was used in the television series, "High Noon", which was partly filmed at the Chino Airport.

The county's airport commission recently approved a proposal for the five T-hangers to be built at the airport, said Townsend. The facility, to include a restaurant, will occupy about seven acres.

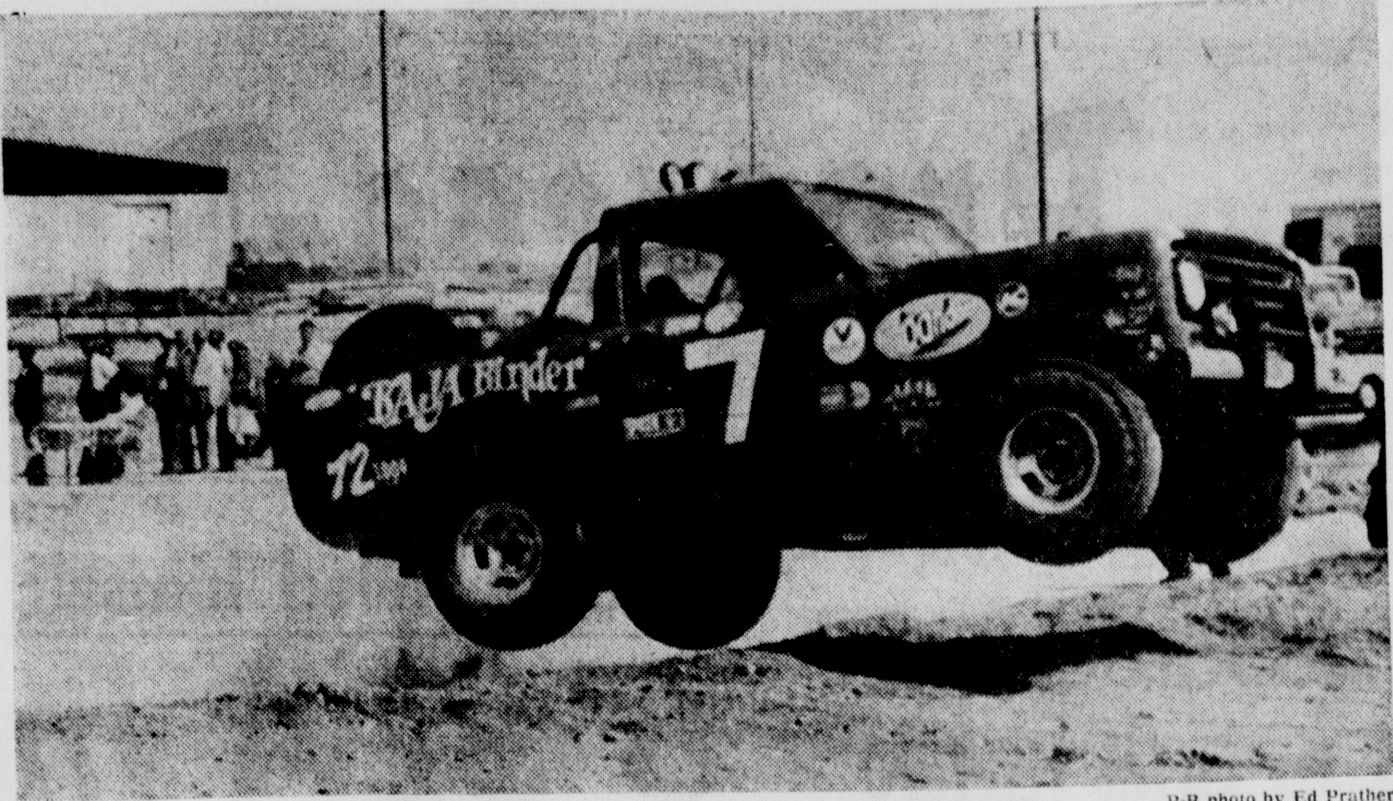

At present, the airport has 320 planes based there and only 120 hangar spaces.

Air operations have steadily increased since the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) opened a traffic control tower in January 1973, he added. These operations now average from 14,000 to 15,000 per month.

The airport houses operations ranging from mobile home factories to airplane sales agencies, charter service, jet modification, plus such airplane maintenance facilities as engine overhauls, instrument, radio and electronic repairs.

"We have nearly 200 persons employed by these various businesses," said Townsend.

The airport occupies about 600 acres on the south side of Euclid Avenue, south of Merrill Avenue. Reynolds Boggio is the manager.

AIRBORNE — An industrial welcoming ceremony turned into an off-road racing demonstration Friday in Chino as officials of Bandag Inc. displayed one of the company's entries in last year's Baja 1000. The company, which is scheduled to open its new Chino facility next fall, is a leading international manufacturer of precured tread rubber and equipment. Taking part in the ceremony at the construction site were Chino City Manager Bob Fast, Councilwoman Eileen Carter, San Bernardino County Supervisor Robert Townsend, and Fred Ricci from the California State Department of Commerce.

Marauders hit Belfast; 2 more die

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Marauding gunmen shot to death two men at a Roman Catholic pub 40 miles from Belfast Friday in the worst violence of the 10-day-old Protestant general strike.

Police headquarters said 20 men were arrested on investigation for the killings at Byrne's pub outside the town of Ballymena, County Antrim.

The deaths took the toll to 1,025 in nearly five years of violence involving majority Protestants, minority Roman Catholics and the British army.

Police sources said the killings followed a rampage by a group of men wearing paramilitary uniforms who attacked pubs which stayed open in defiance of the militant Protestant strike call.

They said the men wrecked the pubs and beat up the owners.

The assassinations were the most deadly incident reported since the strike was launched 10 days earlier. The body of another man was found in Belfast earlier this week.

Police reported an explosion at a gasoline station at North Belfast, causing damage but no casualties. Police said the station remained open in defiance of strike orders.

In London, Prime Minister Harold Wilson met with the province's top political leaders and then called a cabinet session at No. 10 Downing street to decide on his next moves.

A statement issued after the meeting with Ulster leaders said "there can be no question of negotiating with anybody seeking to operate outside the established constitutional framework."

In Belfast the Ulster Workers' Council announced measures to "alleviate adverse conditions." In addition to relaxation on fuel supplies, they said all stores may open today and announced permission for a cargo of Northern Ireland dairy produce to sail for export from Belfast docks Saturday.

City budget session set

POMONA — The City Council this morning will hold its first session on the proposed city budget for 1974-75 at Kellogg West on the Cal Poly campus starting at 9:30.

City Administrator Jerrold Gence said the first meeting would be devoted to the review of proposals submitted by the various city departments.

GM to offer 5 small cars

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. will offer five new small cars next year — four sub-compacts and a "Mini-Caddy" — along with the Wankel rotary engine as an option, GM Chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg announced Friday.

Gerstenberg, presiding at his final shareholders meeting before retirement this fall, confirmed that the long-rumored small cars will be built. He said it showed that the world's largest auto company was responding to the demand for small cars caused by the energy crisis.

Gerstenberg said the rotary engine will be offered after Jan. 1 as an option on the new sporty subcompact Chevrolet, which probably will be named the "Chapparral." It will be offered on other small cars when supplies become available, he said.

The rotary engine was to have been introduced this fall, but was delayed by problems with fuel economy that have now been solved, Gerstenberg said. He also said the use of catalytic converters to control exhaust emissions on all 1975 model GM cars in the United States and Canada will provide a 13 per cent fuel economy improvement over 1974 models.

Employee held in shooting

INDUSTRY — A La Puente man was in satisfactory condition Friday night after being shot by a fellow employee Friday morning at Day and Night Manufacturing Co. here, police reported.

According to Los Angeles County Sheriff's deputies, Ralph Pete Saenz, 25, of 14832 Flanner St., La Puente, was shot once in the abdomen with a small caliber weapon. He was taken to Doctor's Hospital in La Puente where surgery was performed.

Deputies arrested John H. Turner, 41, of Compton, at the scene. He was held on a charge of attempted murder.

Authorities could not immediately explain the circumstances leading to the shooting.

Man convicted of murder gets new trial

ONTARIO — Harold Eugene Jackson, 36, of Ontario, convicted in 1971 of robbing and killing an Ontario motel owner, has been granted a new trial in West Valley Superior Court.

After hearing arguments from Jackson's attorney earlier in the week, Judge Clifton L. Allen granted the new trial Friday and set June 17 as the date of proceedings.

Arguments for the new trial were based on a Fourth District Court of Appeals ruling that reversed Jackson's 1971 Superior Court conviction in the death of John C. Andriolo, 79, of Ontario who was found bludgeoned to death in one of his motel rooms on Nov. 2.

Panel nixes S.D. park plan, calls it 'too ambitious'

SAN DIMAS — A firm's plan to spend $400,000 on the development of the proposed swim park has been declared "too ambitious" and rejected by the Parks and Recreation Commission.

City Manager Robert Poff and Bryce Bailey, parks and recreation director, will meet next week with consultants from Lampman and Associates of Pomona to discuss the plans for the swim park.

Bailey said he is hopeful that the consultant will draw up new plans that conform to the directions given by commission members. He said the commission feels that the project as it is now designed is "too ambitious for the city."

The commission has suggested that a $200,000 to $250,000 would be more in tune with the city's needs.

Fred Brooks, consultant from Lampman and Associates, presented the swim park plan to the commission and the city Council at a joint study session last March as part of the master plan for development of city parks, but the commission didn't take any action on the swim park plan until its meeting this week.

The proposed plan would have included four pools, indoor and outdoor eating areas, an exercise and sauna room for adults and turf and sand areas that surround the pools.

The four pools included a tot pool, an intermediate pool for training youngsters how to swim, a 25 yard, eight-lane pool and diving pool that featured two one meter boards and one three meter board.

Bailey said plans for the swim park are scheduled for completion in 1974-75 with actual construction of the swim park starting in 1975-76.

He said he is hoping that the consultant will make the revisions with out any additional cost to the city.

Walnut relents over complaints on parking ban

WALNUT — Facing a continuing barrage of citizen complaints over the ban on overnight parking, city councilmen appear ready to bend a little.

After hearing two more residents complain this week about the ordinance which prohibits parking on city streets between 2 and 4 a.m., councilmen directed City Atty. Sam Siegel to prepare amendments to the law allowing temporary parking permits to be issued.

Councilman William Wentworth, in fact, said the city should act on the amendments at next Wednesday's meeting.

The ordinance keeping autos away from city curbs overnight was adopted in 1959, but never "systematically enforced" until last November, said City Manager Andy Lazzaretto.

Sheriff's deputies began to issue parking tickets, after citizens in the Collegewood area complained about persons parking large trailers in the street overnight, he added.

Tickets all over

Residents all over the city began receiving tickets, however, and citizens have been angered over the "no parking" law since.

Many have strongly criticized the council, saying they could not park their cars in front of their homes at night. Others said they have a "space problem" in that they own too many cars and cannot squeeze them all into garages.

George W. Young, 20963 De Loraine St., angrily told the council this week, "I've lived here 5 1/2 years, and parked in front of my house all that time. Now, all of a sudden, I'm getting parking tickets."

"It's unfair," he added. "I can't have any visitors late at night, or throw a party that lasts until morning, because everyone would get tickets."

Young asked councilmen why the law "wasn't enforced five years ago?"

Dee Strickland of 348 Barbados Drive said she was "tired" of getting parking tickets. She asked councilmen for an overnight parking permit.

Temporary permits

Lazzaretto proposed allowing temporary permits for 10 days for "special cases," including those who have too many cars to fit into garages. He said the permits could be extended, but not more than three times.

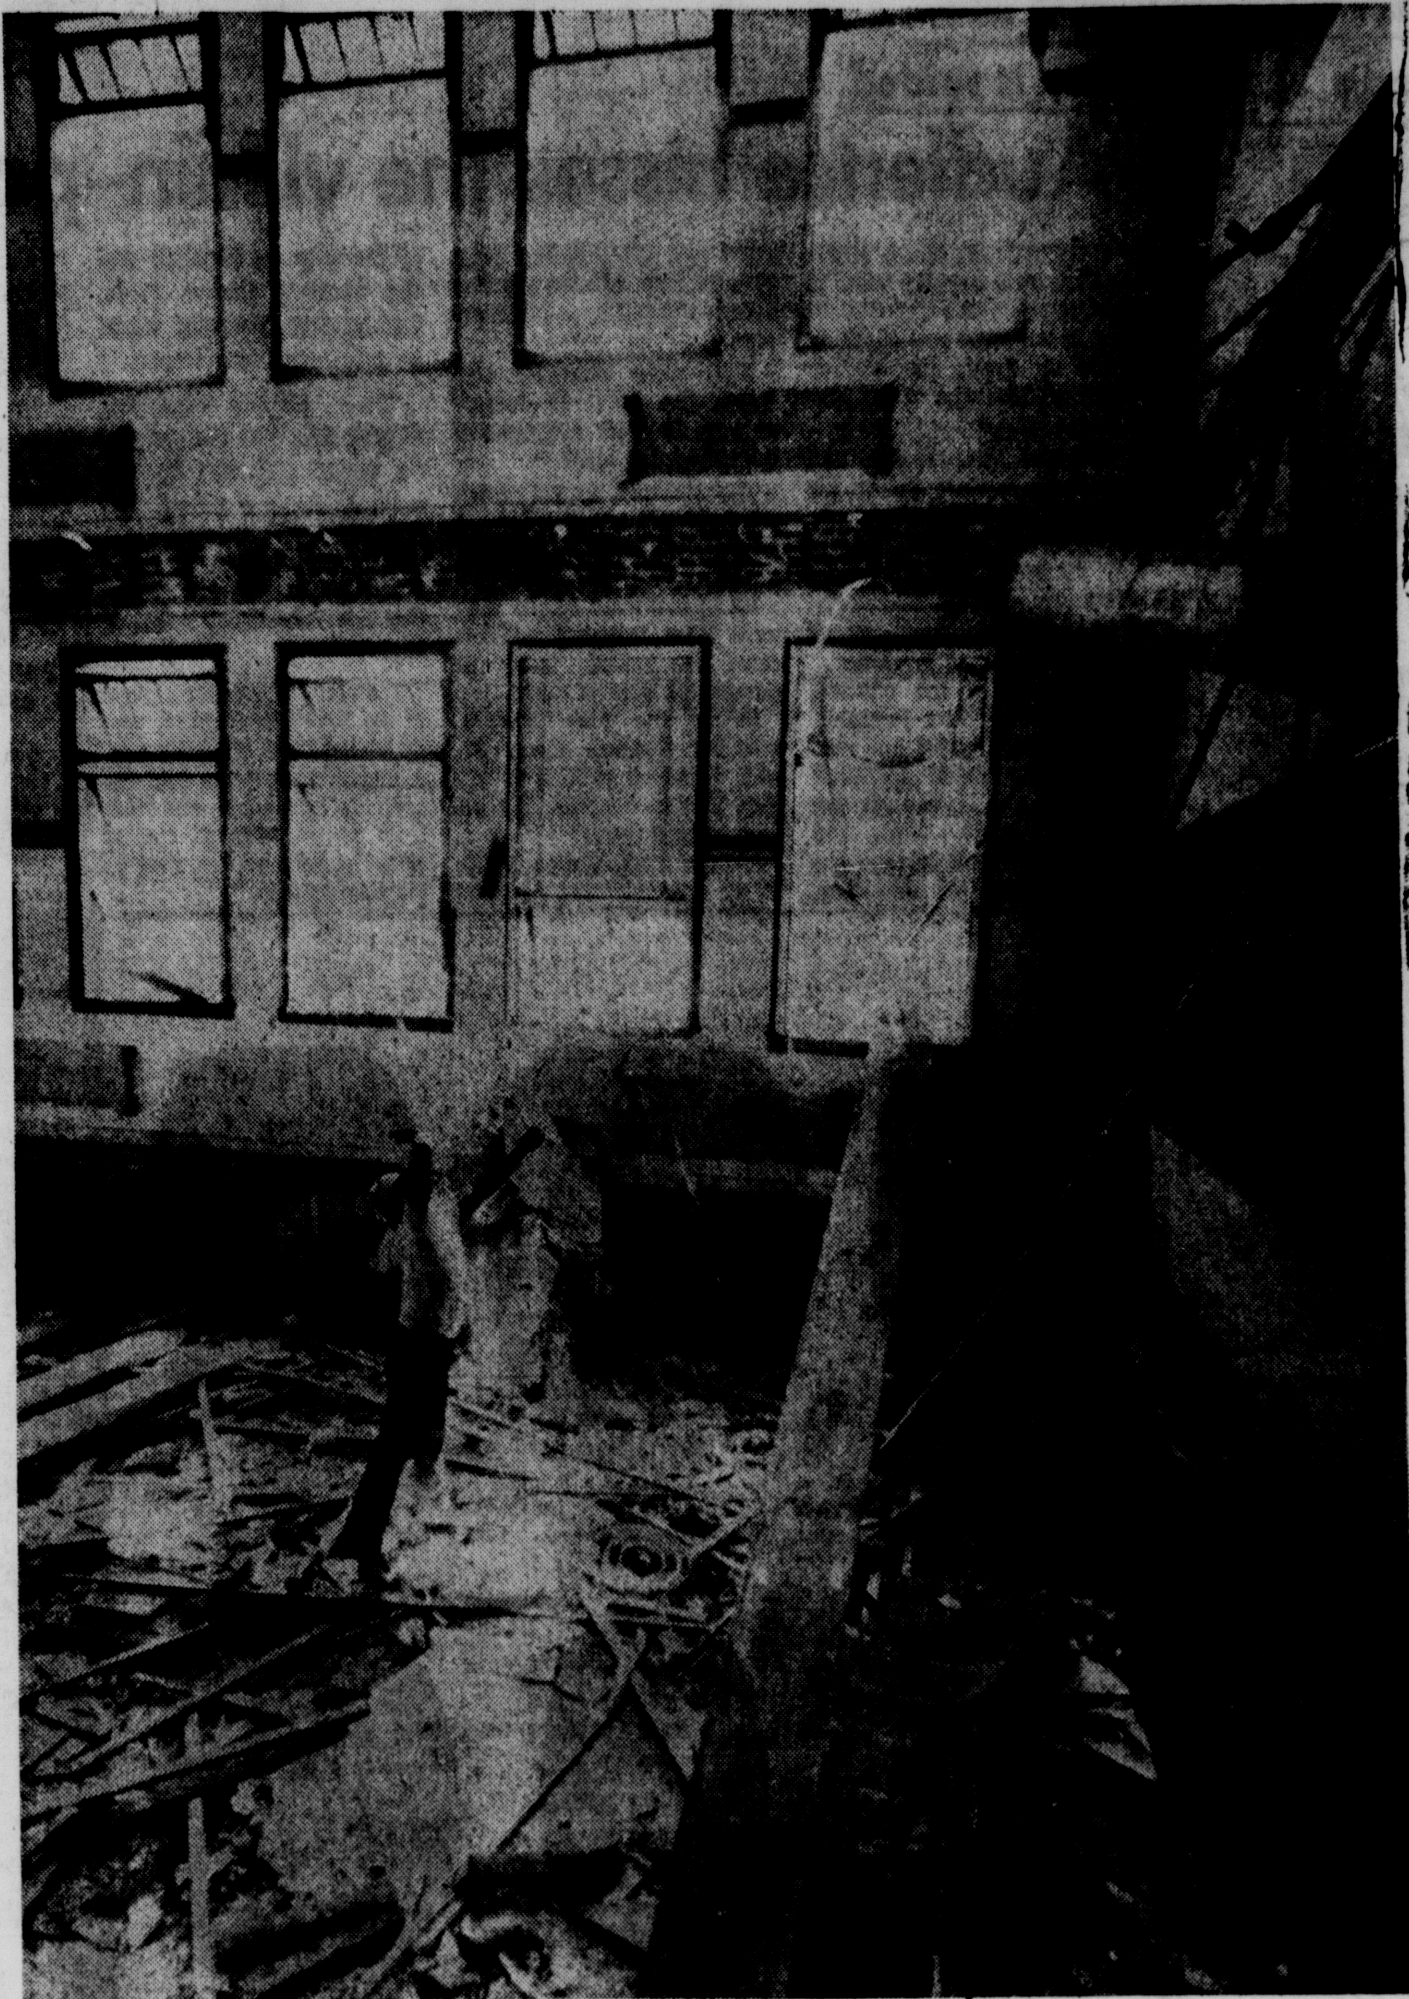

The city has supported the parking ban, he added, because of the "safety problem" reported in Collegewood, and "it keeps the streets clean." If cars are not parked overnight, street sweepers can get to work early the next day.

Wentworth said, however, that "some people have three or four kids and five or six cars. They just don't have a place to park them."

Councilman Robert Lovemark cited the recreational vehicle problem in that residents find campers are too big to park in garages or driveways.

George Shindo, city planning adviser, countered by saying, "90 per cent of the people complaining about the ordinance have not used their garage for parking cars."

"If a guy is using his garage for a pool hall, he shouldn't have a permit for overnight parking."

OLD ROOSEVELT COMES DOWN

With its 487 children moved into a new, $945,000 building, 45-year-old Roosevelt Elementary School at 701 N. Huntington Blvd., Pomona, is being demolished. The new school, a single-story structure, was built by the James I. Barnes Construction Co. of Claremont. This firm, as part of the contract, is tearing down the old building, erected in 1929, and clearing the site.

Driver flunks car test, then sobriety test

CLAREMONT — A Chino youth drove to the California Highway Patrol office here Thursday after his van had flunked a vehicle inspection.

But then the driver reportedly flunked a sobriety test and he was transported to the San Dimas sheriff's jail.

Jeffrey Kuntz, 18, of 5065 Washington Ave. was booked on suspicion of possessing marijuana and suspicion of being under the influence of marijuana. He was later released on bail.

The youth had earlier gone through the CHP's vehicle inspection lane and was cited for not having a driver's license in his possession and also for the van having a faulty muffler.

Officer D. S. Williams said he was checking the van to see if the correction had been made when he noticed the driver's speech to be slow, his mouth very dry, a white coating on his tongue, and his eyes were bloodshot and glassy.

After Kuntz was given a sobriety test, Williams checked the van and found a cellophane bag containing a green leafy substance believed to be marijuana inside a heater door.

Chung King Cafe to relocate in larger Pomona quarters

POMONA — The Chung King Cafe, located at 144 W. Fourth St. since 1946, is expected to relocate in larger quarters downtown by mid-July. Mrs. Leung Yee Ping Wong, proprietor, announced.

Some $159,000 in improvements are being made at the new site, a building formerly housing a stationery business at the southeast corner of Third and Main Streets. T. C. Construction Corp. of Los Angeles is the contractor.

The Chung King property on Fourth has been acquired by the Pomona Redevelopment Agency as part of a combined two-block site for the $8 million Pomona Financial Center. The old Chung King restaurant will be torn down.

Mrs. Wong's husband, the late Henry Wong, opened his first Chinese restaurant, the Chinese Garden, at 214 E. Third St., under the name Chung King Cafe. The present Chung King opened in May of 1946. The Jade Palace in Montclair was opened in 1959.

Suspect caught in winery copper tubing thefts

ONTARIO — West End sheriff's deputies have arrested a 26-year-old Ontario man in connection with a number of copper tubing burglaries at the Regina Winery, 12467 Base Line Ave. in Etiwanda over the last several months.

James Millard Linker, 26, of 1728 Hawthorne Ave., Ontario, according to sheriff's deputies, was captured Wednesday night by two security guards at the winery after he allegedly climbed over a fence. He was booked in West End on suspicion of burglary.

The winery, during the last several months, has been the victim of numerous copper tubing burglaries and vandalism. Once according to sheriff's department reports, a security guard on duty was shot at by several men in a car.

William "Duke" Kraft, co-owner of Kraft Detective Agency and a former West End sheriff's detectives and another Kraft security guard, John Kuko, told deputies at the winery that they observed the suspect get out of a car driven by another man and try to pry open a lock to the fence gate. The security officers said the suspect was unsuccessful in prying open the gate and scaled the fence. The guard captured him seconds later.

Mayor of Upland settles rivalry, backs 1 candidate

UPLAND — Mayor Abner Haldeman is sticking by his support of Pomona Councilman Charles Bader for the Republican nomination in the 65th Assembly District primary race.

Both Bader and Chino dairyman Pete Vander Poel claimed the mayor's official endorsement Tuesday at a candidates forum before members of the Kiwanis Club here.

Bader produced a certificate from Haldeman dated May 22 testifying to Haldeman's full support of his candidacy.

Vander Poel immediately announced that Bader was in error and that he was the only candidate who could claim the mayor's endorsement.

Bill Byers, Vander Poel's campaign consultant, said later this week that a pledge card signed by both the mayor and his wife was indeed on file in campaign headquarters.

Byers said the undated card showed Haldeman had checked off boxes on the card indicated he would be willing to distribute campaign literature and one that read, "You may use my name."

Haldeman, when contacted later, said, "My decision is made. I support Bader. If there was a card I must have thought it was a survey card."

Blood donors being sought for next week

POMONA — Because of the Memorial Day holiday on Monday, the Red Cross Blood Donor Center is lacking its usual number of appointments for the donation of blood on Tuesday and Wednesday.

A spokesman for the Red Cross says that the need for blood usually rises after a holiday, however, due to accidents and illness.

Persons wishing to donate blood on Tuesday from 3 to 6:30 p.m. and Wednesday from 1:30 to 5 p.m. at the local Blood Donor Center, 420 N. Reservoir St., should call 629-7455 for an appointment.

Historical or hysterical?

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

The bicentennial of the United States of America, the two-hundredth anniversary of the Birth of a Nation, is only two years away — and what have you done to prepare for it? Nothing. What are ya, some kinda Commie pinko?

Come 1976 you're going to feel kind of left out when the U.S. Marine Band gives a concert at Washington's monument and Jacksonville, Miss. holds its Miss Thirteen Colonies Pageant, complete with fried chicken and watermelon. Get with it. This is a momentous occasion. The Cheyenne, Wyo. Chamber of Commerce is having a contest to find the man who looks most like George Washington. Charlotte, N.C. is staging a competition to see what woman can sew 13 stars on a flag the fastest. All America is a-buzz with preparations for the great observation.

Already whirring off the looms at a dozen mills are T-shirts emblazoned with the Liberty Bell and Nathan Hale's "I regret I have but one life to give for my country" and Spiro Agnew's "A public office is a public trust." Bubble gum cards are being printed with pictures of Jefferson and Adams and quotations from the pantheon of American heroes: "Don't give up the ship," England expects every man to do his duty, "Hit 'em where they ain't."

Beer mugs, ash trays, cocktail napkins, ballpoint pens, hats, plastic buttons and calendars will all bear patriotic and historical slogans. China figurines of Pierrot and Pierrette are being re-labeled "George and Martha." Fir-scented souvenir pillows that formerly read "For you I pine, for you I balsam" are being embroidered with "When in the course of human events . . . ." In men's styles the Gatsby Look is being replaced by the Jefferson Look.

If it does nothing else, the birthday celebration is certain to revive a dozen moribund industries throughout the nation.

To counteract the wave of commercialism that threatens to inundate the observance, a group of Americans prominent in arts and letters has formed the U.S. Bicentennial Society in Richmond, Va., headed by Pulitzer Prize-winning historian Virginia Dabney. It will commission a symphony, collectors' publications and lasting works of art related to this history of the United States.

Among these will be 1,000 copies of George Washington's inaugural sword ($925 each) and reproductions of Winslow Homer paintings on fine china plates at $625 the serving. I think I'll settle for an ash tray.

It is not too early for all of us to think about getting ready to make preparations for this once-in-a-lifetime patriotic promotion. Paint your house red, white and blue. Rename your camper "Bunker Hill." Give up smoking Prince Albert and switch to George Washington. If you're a streaker, have the Constitution tattooed on your chest.

I'm going to garb my wife like the Statue of Liberty, give her a book and a torch, and stand her out in the garden. No sacrifice is too great for our bicentennial.

He doesn't need eyes to lead student body

ASHLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Gary Manlove, 93, thinks being student body president at Southern Oregon College next fall may be an advantage for him.

"Because I'm blind," said Manlove, "I have to be much better organized, and I have to concentrate."

"I can do most anything I ever could do, I just do it differently now."

Manlove said as student body president he will need extra help beyond his seeing-eye dog, Grandy.

"I will have to have a reader to read my mail," he said. "I'll need a tape recorder to dictate letters. So I do have some special needs."

Manlove was afflicted eight years ago with diabetic retinitis, a disease that causes hemorrhaging of the tiny blood vessels in the eyes. The disease destroyed the retina in his right eye and left his left eye badly scarred. He is now able to see vague images up to 10 or 15 feet away.

"I can't see sitting back and letting life go by," he said of his blindness. "I find the more active I am, the more involved in life I am, the happier I am personally."

"Being involved in student activities, and particularly in student government, to me is a valuable part of my educational process. Also, no matter what I do in the future, I imagine I will be involved in some kind of community service. I just can't imagine dropping out."

One of his first acts as president of the 4,000-member student body will be to form a campuswide council representative of the students, administrators, and staff faculty.

"We'll get together and brainstorm common problems," he said.

Manlove, who had lived in Southern California before coming to SOC three years ago, will receive his bachelor's degree in history next month and will continue on to get his master's here. He hopes to do some research in Mexico for a doctorate in Latin American studies and history.

"I'd like to teach in a small college, one similar to SOC," he said.

When Manlove graduates June 1 it will be a "family affair." His younger brother, Mike, a biology major, also will get his degree and 8-year-old Grancy, a German shepherd, will receive a "diploma."

Before coming to Oregon, Manlove lived in Southern California and did swimming and building maintenance work in Newport Beach, where his daughters, Julie, 16, and Leslie, 13, live with his ex-wife.

Play is raided

Audience hisses the villain-police

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — The well dressed man in the gray suit and dark tie sitting in the front row suddenly stood up during the opening night performance of the play "Sweet Eros."

"Excuse me, ladies and gentlemen," state police Lt. Peter Agnes told fellow theatergoers. "The audience is free to leave. But the actors are under arrest."

The capacity audience of 200 persons hissed in protest.

The stars of the one-act, one-hour play, Joel Polinsky, 32, and Lisa Ingalls, had just finished a scene of simulated intercourse on a bed on the darkened stage. When the lights came back on, the policeman made his announcement and led Polinsky from Theater Two. Ms. Ingalls was escorted to jail by a policeman.

Both were charged with "open and gross lewdness," as were 10 other members of the production staff.

The audience hissed at police but stood and cheered the actors as they were led away.

All 12 members of the play were later released and ordered to appear today in Cambridge District Court.

Before the play started, producer Charles Koro, 23, said, "There is nothing in this play that is obscene. It's all done in good taste."

A crew from station WBZ-TV in Boston filmed portions of the play, and police told the station's drama critic, Pat Mitchell, the film would be subpoenaed as evidence.

The playbill describes "Sweet Eros" as the story of "a young girl who is kidnapped, stripped naked, tied up and (later) seduced by a young writer who is depressed by the violence, alienation and inhumanity found in society."

The play, which takes place in the man's apartment, was scheduled for a six-week run. A theater spokesman told the audience as they left that their $4, $5, and $6 tickets would be honored "as soon as the play reopens."

"I don't think it was offensive at all," said a young woman in the audience who asked not to be identified. "I thought it was very well done."

"It was reality," said James Higgins, 29, a Boston artist. "It was a powerful play. If it was offensive it was because it turned the spotlight on the truth."

Man cannot live by tread alone

We offer a minimum mileage guarantee on every tire we sell, in order to give you at least one basis for comparing tire values.

There are also other important factors in choosing a tire. The US Dept of Transportation is hard at work on standards for tread wear, traction, and maximum speed rating.

In the meantime 4day continues to offer you our unique mileage guarantee so you can at least compare the cost of, say, a 25,000 mile tire among various dealers who sell an equivalent tire. Our guarantee helps you understand one of the important principles of tire value, that of miles per tire dollar.

Another important principle is that of getting all the road-gripping ability you need. Here are some of the factors that affect traction:

1. amount of tread on pavement
2. flexibility of sidewalls
3. softness of tread rubber
4. tread design grooving

But factors 3 and 4 decrease tire mileage as they increase traction. So you can't assume that just because a certain tire offers you the most miles per dollar that it's necessarily the all-around best for you.

Not even a professional wholesale tire buyer can tell a good tire from a poor one by kicking it, bouncing it, or looking at it real hard. All new tires look sturdy, black, and round.

We offer our minimum mileage guarantee on every tire we sell. Not as a universal index of value, but as a way of helping you find the best deal there is.

We're in business to make money. But we know that the way to do that is to make loyal customers.

You gotta watch that fine print

The 4day guarantee is your insurance against these three problems:

1. Defects in workmanship and materials
2. Damage from road hazards, such as nails and chuckholes
3. Rapid tread wear

Other tire dealers give some kind of guarantee on the first two. Some also give a tread wear guarantee on their steel-belted tires. Few (if any) offer a guarantee against all three for every tire they carry. This is the first problem with most tire dealers' guarantees.

The second problem lies in the procedure used in determining the reimbursement or allowance due you when a tire fails.

The two methods are:

1. measure the remaining tread depth, or
2. measure the unused miles

At 4day we don't use the tread depth method when adjusting tires we sell and mount, because it works against the customer in four ways.

A. Tread depth remaining when a tire fails customarily is measured in three places on the tires. The average always seems to work in favor of the dealer somehow. Often it isn't an average. It's the least of the three.

B. According to US law a tire is legally unsafe when it has 2/32" of tread remaining. So if a tire has 10/32" when new and it fails after you've worn 7/32" off, you'll only get an allowance for 1/32", which isn't much.

C. Because a tire tread squirms as it is driven, it wears at a faster rate when new. The more tread, the more there is to squirm, and the faster you lose when using the tread depth method.

D. It is impossible to guarantee against excessive tread wear using a guarantee for the "lifetime of the tire" because the guarantee wears out synchronously with the tread. It's like guaranteeing a battery for as long as it doesn't run down.

A guarantee based on miles traveled instead of on tread depth is a better procedure, usually. It tells you exactly how far the tire will last.

But even this kind can be rendered useless, or nearly so. For example, suppose you're a tire dealer. You have a $20 tire that will last most people somewhere between 20,000 and 25,000 miles. So your guarantee is

When a customer comes back at, say, 22,000 miles with a worn-out tread, you sell him a replacement with an allowance for the 3,000 miles he didn't get. Fine. But you up the price of the replacement—the identical tire—to a special "adjustment price" of $23.

That way you always make money, and you force the customer to keep coming back. It's a vicious but common device.

Is there a house for the doctor?

United Press International

Bushnell, an Illinois community about 200 miles south-west of Chicago, may not be at the end of the rainbow but it lured a doctor with the promise of a pot of gold.

After a six-month search by civic leaders, the new doctor found Bushnell through an ad in a medical publication offering a physician a "pot of gold at the end of the rainbow."

"Hope he stays," said Jack Gordon, head of the Bushnell search committee. "We've had plenty over the years, but they come, stay for a while and leave."

Bushnell is one of the lucky towns in the search for medical care. Christopher, in southern Illinois, has one doctor but needs another to keep its hospital accredited.

Christopher will offer a doctor free rent for a year or even longer, according to Jeff Trout, assistant state's attorney and head of the Lions Club group hunting for a doctor.

In Mississippi, the most under-doctored state in the nation, a bill has been approved letting one county in the Delta help pay tuition for local medical students who agree to practice in the county after graduation. A spokesman for the Mississippi Medical Association predicts similar legislation for other counties will be offered in the 1975 session.

Mississippi has only 83 doctors per 100,000 population, compared with 171 per 100,000 for the nation. The towns of Bay St. Louis and Waveland on the Mississippi Gulf Coast now have two general practitioners serving a county of 17,000, compared with six about two years ago.

The American Medical Association is involved in two projects to recruit doctors for areas that need them—the Physicians' Placement Service and the National Health Service Corps (NHSC).

The placement service matches up lists of physicians seeking practice opportunities and communities that are short of doctors.

NHSC is a federal program placing physicians and other health professionals where they are needed. Established in 1970, it has always attracted young doctors and the AMA recently began recruiting physicians in the mid-career for two-year assignments.

"Apparently there is the feeling that some older physicians, already established in practice, might also be willing to accept the challenge of a two-year minimum commitment," the AMA says.

Grover, N.C., and its 600 inhabitants solved the doctor problem with the help of Minette Textile Mills, the town's only industry. The mill underwrote a medical clinic which is rented to the two family doctors who run it at one dollar a year, housing for the doctors and a guaranteed salary for five years. The medical facility also includes a dentist's office and a pharmacy.

Some towns manage to get by without doctors. Martha Schwebach, a nurse who had worked for the only physician in Estancia, N.M., took a special course at the University of New Mexico Medical School after he left town. She provides medical care, under the supervision of physicians 60 miles away in Albuquerque.

Deer Isle, a 2,500-inhabitant island off the Maine coast, also depends on a nurse practitioner. She can consult with doctors at Blue Hill Hospital 28 miles away using a closed-circuit television system. Doctors maintain the doctor-patient relationship with the hookup.

The residents of St. Helen, Mich., want their doctor back. They found Dr. Lawrence Arnold Weisman after a five-year search and the osteopath began practicing in a clinic the town provided earlier this year. But Weisman was arrested May 6 for practicing without a license. Weisman's attorney said the doctor had paid the license fee and the state cashed his check but he had failed to pick up his license. Townspeople voted last week they want him to resume practice if he can get his license back.

Woman with 300 'sons' named Nazarene mother of the year

LA VERNE — An unmarried woman with more than 300 "sons" has been named "Mother of the Year" by the Pomona First Nazarene Church.

Miss Barbara Meyers, who has completed 25 years of service as a house mother at Le Roy Boys Home, says the surprise award, complete with a plaque, has thrown her into a shock from which she is just beginning to recover.

"There's been some kidding," she said. "But the fact is, I feel I have given more of myself to the boys because I have no children of my own."

Not that she would not have liked having her own children, she explains. It's just that there was never time to think about marriage. Helping foster children has been her life ambition ever since she was in the fourth grade.

That's when she found that her teacher was a foster parent to two children, and that's when Miss Meyers, herself one of six children, decided to devote her life to making a home for foster children.

She estimates that since she began working for the boys' home here in 1949, she has had at least 300 boys assigned to her, many of whom still keep in touch with her.

She says she has never regretted her choice of occupation.

In addition to administering to the daily needs of nine children in the Witty Cottage of Le Roy Boys Home, she also reads to them, counsels them and helps them say their prayers.

BARBARA MEYERS

"Many of the children come from such chaotic backgrounds that it takes a while to show them that life can be pleasant," she explains. "The satisfaction is in watching the boys being transformed into useful responsible people."

And then there are some special dividends.

"One of my former boys stopped by the other day," she recalled. "He is now married, has a family, and has recently opened a children's home of his own in Santa Paula. Can a house mother ask for more?"

Luther denied power of devil

NEW YORK (UPI) — Martin Luther would have hated the popular film "The Exorcist," in the opinion of the Lutheran Council-USA.

Luther believed in a physical devil who stalked the world disturbing Christians and wreaking general havoc, the council said. But throughout his writing and teaching, Luther stressed that the Devil had no power to hold the faithful Christian, who is delivered from his clutches at baptism.

Women like men strong, but gentle, hairy-chested

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI) — Women like their men strong but gentle; hairy-chested but neatly cropped on top, according to survey results that followed a picture of a nude male that ran in the Oregon State University student newspaper.

The survey in the barometer was sponsored by Bo-Tree Productions of San Francisco, originator of an all-male nude calendar. The survey picture was of a man wearing a smile and holding an apple. Those answering the survey said they liked men with medium-length, neat, clean hair; either green or blue eyes; full, kissable lips; strong, broad shoulders; long, strong arms; gentle hands, and

Klein sure of vote for impeachment

CHICAGO (UPI) — Herbert G. Klein, President Nixon's close friend and former communications director, says he is thoroughly convinced that Nixon will not resign but equally sure that the House Judiciary Committee 'will vote a bill of impeachment.'

'I don't have any illusion but that the House Judiciary Committee will vote a bill of impeachment to the floor,' Klein said. 'There are a number of partisan members who have already declared themselves for impeachment before seeing any evidence.'

'I'm thoroughly convinced that President Nixon should remain in office. I believe he will remain in office.'

Klein, a friend of the President for 26 years, said it would not be 'in the interests of the country' and would 'set a bad precedent' if the President resigned.

'I believe he's a person who feels he has a very clear mandate and a very clear destiny that has brought him to this part of his career. One of his great attributes is a very strong mental discipline.'

Klein blamed the press for helping turn public sentiment against the President by carrying 'partisan leaks' and said 'I believe that public opinion will have a lot more influence on it.'

'We've gone from a period of not enough investigative reporting to a period of some investigative reporting that has now turned to a gossip school of journalism,' he told a news conference.

'There are partisan motives leaking things to the press that will in the long run be detrimental to people they oppose as well as to government. We should go back to checking manipulated leaks.'

Klein, now a vice president of corporate relations for Metromedia Inc., was in Chicago to address a public affairs seminar at the First Commercial Bank.

La Verne rolls but Bonita loses

Leos need one more victory

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LEWISTON, Ida. — "Break up La Verne!"

That was the cry heard in the stands Friday afternoon as the La Verne College Leopards cracked 37 hits and rolled to impressive 16-2 and 13-3 victories over Lewis-Clark State and Linfield Colleges in the Arca One playoffs at Harris Field here in Lewiston.

The Leos eliminated the host school in the first game. They dealt Linfield its first loss of the tournament in the second. The Leopards will play Linfield again at noon today.

If La Verne wins, its all over. If Linfield wins, the two teams will play a second game 45 minutes after the first to determine the champion.

Dan Quisenberry (11-1) will face Wildcat ace Dick Cahill (9-1) as the Leos go for a sweep today.

Friday's victories extended the Leopards' winning streak to 15 in a row. Since a 5-4 start early in the season, they now have won 25 of their last 27 games in a 33-6 season to date.

After La Verne eliminated his club in the first game, Lewis-Clark coach Raymon Hooker said the Leos were simply too much for his team.

"La Verne has a fine ball club," Hooker said. "An excellent ball club. They just overwhelmed us."

Ad Rutschman, the Linfield coach, was even more effusive in his praise after the Leopards had pounded four of his pitchers for 14 hits and 13 runs.

"They're the best NAIA team we have played this year," Rutschman commented. "They keep the pressure on you all the time. They make contact which makes them a good hitting ball club and they have fine pitching. They are really tough."

Rutschman didn't think the one-sided defeat would affect his team's play today. "I think we will come back," he promised.

"We will just have to play a little harder."

La Verne scored in seven of the nine innings in the first game. The Leos "rumped off to a 3-0 lead before the Warriors even came to bat.

Hank Merenda drew the first of four walks he received in the game. Paul Flemming, Mike Alonso, and Wayne Redfean followed with singles, and it was 3-0 and no one had been retired.

A strikeout and a double play ended the fun, but only temporarily.

The Leopards broke it open in the top of the second. They scored five more runs on five singles as LCS used three pitchers while vainly trying to stem the tide. Three walks and two wild pitches contributed to the big inning.

Catcher Jim Sherman singled' his first three times up and finished with four hits, including a double, in his six trips.

Centerfielder Art Sanchez and right-fielder Redfean drove in seven runs between them. Sanchez batted in four runs with a single, double and sacrifice fly. Redfean drove in three with three singles.

Starter Robb Mayhew (9-3) coasted after the first six innings, in which LCS hit only five balls out of the infield including three singles. A single and three doubles gave the Warriors their two runs in the eighth inning.

John Verhoeven (12-1) dominated Linfield in the second game. Coach

Ben Hines, who obviously wants to sweep, lifted Verhoeven after six innings with the Leos holding a 13-0 advantage.

Verhoeven, who will be ready to believe today if necessary, struck out six and didn't walk a man. That gives him 101 strikeouts in 96 and 1-3 innings.

La Verne scored all its runs in the second game in two innings. A leadoff walk to Merenda, singles by Flemming, Alonso, and Nick Leyva and a two-run double by Jesse Mendoza gave the Leos a 4-0 lead in the first inning.

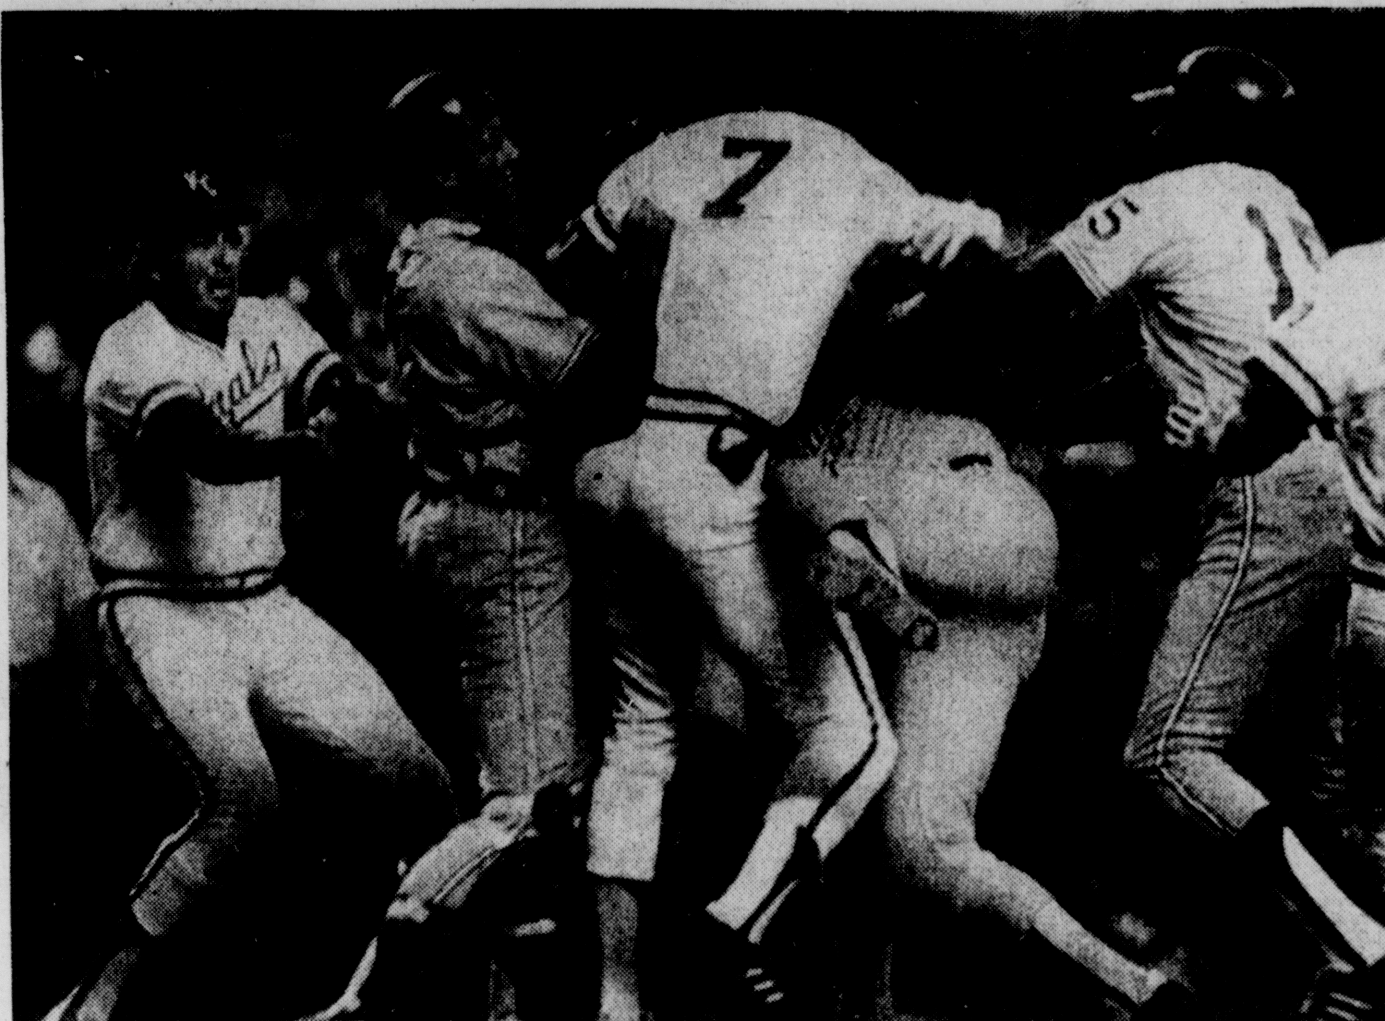

They added nine more in the fifth. Four walks and two errors combined with five Leo hits to make his contest another runaway.

"We enjoyed playing the game," grinned Hines. "These are outstanding kids."

The Leos were outstanding Friday and they certainly did enjoy themselves.

LEO LEFTOVERS — Another idea suggested half-seriously by fans here Friday was to put the whole La Verne team up for a draft by the other clubs. . . . One unhappy and dead-serious Linfield supporter commented, "Bring back Montana. Let La Verne play USC and Arizona State where they belong."

Mendoza's hitting in the second game Friday earned him a start today. The big leftfielder went three-for-five including a double and batted in three runs while scoring two.

Davila wins on knockout

Bobby Chacon KO's Lopez

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — Once-beaten featherweight contender Bobby Chacon outthit and outboxed unbeaten Danny "Little Red" Lopez in their featherweight showdown at the L.A. Sports Arena Friday night.

Chacon's superior style finally culminated in a barrage of punches that felled Lopez at 2:49 of the ninth round. Referee John Thomas stopped the fight seconds later after a mandatory eight-count when Lopez appeared helpless against the ropes. It went officially as a knockout at 2:12 of the ninth round, but there was no doubt from the start who the better fighter was Friday night.

Chacon opened a cut over "Little Red's" right eye in the second round, staggered him with left jabs and overhand rights in the third, and continually kept his taller opponent off-balance.

Lopez, of Alhambra, rallied briefly in the second half of the fourth round, nailing Chacon with a flurry of punches to the head and body. It was the lone bright spot of the evening for "Little Red."

It was a different story for Pomona's Alberto Davila, a young bantamweight, fighting only his third 10-round on the same card Friday night.

"Little Red's" stablemate captured his 12th straight pro victory with seventh-round knockout over Rudy Gonzales with 39 seconds left in the round.

Davila put Gonzales down for a mandatory eight-count with a left hook early in the round and then came back with a left again that sent the wobbly Gonzales to the canvas again and referee Dick Young stopped the fight.

Davila, who came into the bout at 114½, decked Gonzales with a right in the first round to set the pace for the rest of the fight.

Davila expected to fight again in five to six weeks, or perhaps on the same card with a Lopez-Chacon rematch, whenever that may occur.

Both fighters expressed interest in a rematch which promoters expect would draw the same massive attendance as Friday's battle.

A near-capacity crowd of 16,027 was on its feet when Lopez took Chacon's barrage in the ninth. Chacon was leading on points at the time. Under California's five-point scoring system, judge Chuck Hassett had it 7-1, while Thomas and Judge Young had it 6-2, all in favor of Chacon. The unofficial P-B card had it also scored 6-2 in Chacon's favor.

Chacon, who came into the ring at 126, had been beaten only once, by Ruben Olivares last September. Now 24-1 with 22 knockouts, Chacon is a prime candidate to face the winner of the featherweight championship fight between defending champ Eder Jofre and Alfredo Marciano.

In the other 10-round preliminary, unbeaten bantamweight Frankie Duarte won a unanimous decision over Japan's Tetsurd Kawakami.

Both qualified at Masters Meet

Scott, Law head for state meet

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

NORWALK — The headline performers from the San Antonio League all season will be heading for Bakersfield next weekend to compete in the high school track and field state meet.

But there's only two of them. Upland High's half miler Steve Scott and Chino's sensational sophomore Jayson Law are the two who will be representing the Pomona Valley at the state meet next weekend.

Scott, whose time in the CIF 3-A finals last weekend ranked him fourth, pulled off a third place finish at the CIF's Masters Meet Friday night at Cerritos College.

The strong-running senior turned the half mile race into one of the more exciting races of the evening.

Scott turned on a burst of speed in the final turn to pull from a distant third to a whisper from leader Tom Lloy of Edison.

But before he reached the wire, Lloy and Burbank's John Musich took the edge in the final 30 yards. Lloy won the Southern Section title in a time of 1:52.8, with Musich posting a time of 1:52.9 and Scott a 1:53.2—his best of the year.

Ganesha's Glen Harter got boxed in during the break for the rail at the end of the first lap, and then was left in the dust in the final 220 yards—failing to qualify.

Later on in the evening Law nearly duplicated his feat in the 220. The sophomore sensation from Cowboy country placed third in the CIF 3-A finals last weekend, but was nipped at the wire for third place Friday night.

But his fourth-place finish still got him into the state meet.

Jim Rohrig of Santa Ana Valley won the event in a swift 21.6 seconds, with Monrovia's Pat Cranor second in 21.9

seconds. The battle for third saw Indio's Mike Harris nip Law—both posting times of 22.6.

The frosh-soph athletes ended their season Friday night, but there were no CIF, Southern Section champions from the Pomona Valley.

However, there were five athletes who did pick up medals for fifth-place finishes or better.

Ganesha's hurdle duo of Frank Stiger and Lloyd Jones both placed in the top three of the 70 high hurdles, but Fontana's Paul Wilson ran off with the championship.

Wilson won the race in 8.8 seconds, with Stiger and Jones crossing the finish line in second and third—both in 8.9 seconds.

Jones failed to qualify in the 120 lows, however.

Montclair's Jim Donaldson, who holds the CIF frosh-soph record of 10.0 in the 100, finished third in one of the two upsets of the night in the 100-yard races.

Roosevelt Humphrey put on a late burst of speed from his lane No. 2 to win the event in 10.1 seconds. Mike Rhue of Santa Ana Valley finished second in an identical 10.1, while Donaldson was clocked for his third-place in 10.2 seconds.

In the varsity 100, Garden Grove's Jim Straw upset a rugged field with a 9.8 clocking. For his victory, he received the first Frank Wycoff Award, which was awarded to the Masters 100 winner.

Garey's Stan Webster placed third in the long jump at 21-8½, while Ontario's Jerold Burleson finished up fifth in the shot put at 57-3¼.

Muir won the sweepstakes trophy with 55 points to Gahr's 23.

A crowd of 8,837 fans were on hand to watch the meet.

Singer, Rivers get into fight on airplane

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The California Angels' Mickey Rivers and Bill Singer had to be separated after exchanging heated words and punches aboard the club's chartered airliner early Friday.

Teammates and coaches restrained the pair and neither player was hurt.

The flareup occurred as the Angels' United Air Lines plane was taxiing to a halt toward a freight terminal following a flight from Kansas City where the team won two straight.

The 25-year-old Rivers, California's regular centerfielder, had remained standing in the aisle as the airliner was making its over-the-ocean approach despite repeated requests from a stewardess that he sit down and fasten his seat belt.

The stewardess told Rivers over the public address system that the plane would have to circle again if he did not comply with the customary flight procedures.

Rivers finally did sit down but Singer, 28, a pitcher, began chewing out the younger player for disobeying the stewardess' instructions. After the pair exchanged angry words, Singer arose and the players began grappling and swinging.

Giants build big lead, hold off Dodgers' rally

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Bobby Bonds' two-run single climaxed a seven-run third inning rally and stood up as the game-winning blow Friday night as the San Francisco Giants outlasted the Los Angeles Dodgers, 9-7.

Steve Ontiveros drove in three runs with a homer and single and Chris Speier also had a two-run single in the third.

Charlie Williams and Randy Moffitt combined to get the last 12 Los Angeles outs and preserve starter Tom Bradley's fifth victory in nine decisions. Moffitt was credited with a save, his 10th of the season.

The Giants chased starter Don Sutton in the third, tagging him for seven hits and seven runs. It was Sutton's fourth loss in 10 decisions.

Bradley had a 9-0 lead when the Dodgers scored in the fifth on a three-run homer by Bill Buckner and they added four more runs off the San Francisco righthander in the sixth before he could retire a batter.

Geoff Zahn, Charlie Hough and Mike Marshall combined to hold the Giants hitless after Bonds' third inning single.

Dave Rader and Garry Maddox added an RBI each for the Giants while Joe Ferguson, Steve Garvey and pinch-hitter Manny Mota had an RBI apiece for the Dodgers.

Cerritos wins JC playoff tilt

SAN DIEGO — Dan Boone spun a four-hitter as Cerritos dumped San Diego City College 6-0 Friday at San Diego State in the opening game of the California Junior College baseball championships.

Boone won his 17th game of the year against a single loss as his teammates stole nine bases in the easy win. The two teams will play again today at 11:30 a.m. at San Diego St., with a second game on tap if SDCC can beat the defending California JC champs.

Bearcats bow to Hemet, 3-2, in CIF finals

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

HEMET — There wasn't a head hung in shame Friday afternoon when 16 Bonita High baseball players received their trophies for finishing runner-up in the 1974 CIF 2-A playoffs.

After all, the 1974 Bearcat version had become one of the winningest teams in the school's history winding up with a season record of 22-7, captured their first Hacienda League title (13-1), had the league's winningest pitcher and Most Valuable Player, placed five players on the All-Hacienda League first team, and finished up with a team batting average of .295.

Despite its high average, it was Bonita's offense that left the visitors on the short end of a 3-2 decision to Hemet, the 2-A CIF champions, on a hot Friday afternoon at the Hemet Fairgrounds.

The Bearcats, who had averaged six hits in their three previous playoff wins, received only four scattered hits. The lack of hitting was partly due to the nervousness on the part of Bonita's hitters, but mostly due to the pitching of Hemet's Glen Finley (10-3).

The lanky righthander appeared to be in complete control, striking out seven and walking just one, with the exception of a shaky first inning when the Bearcats scored on a wild pitch to take a 1-0 lead.

Even when Hemet (22-5) coach Norm West, who directed the Bulldogs to CIF titles in 1963 and '66, pulled Finley with two outs in the seventh in favor of ace Bob Frazier, Finley didn't appear to be in any immediate danger.

Finley had retired freshman Scott Johnson on a pop up to shortstop and first baseman Jay Lacheur on a fly to center field. But Bill Bumstead kept the Bearcat hopes alive with a line single to left.

West then bought in Frazier (12-2) from left field to replace Finley. Meanwhile pinch-runner Jim Hathaway was asked to run for Bumstead and do his thing—steal.

But on Frazier's first pitch to Steve Hines, Hathaway got a poor jump on the righthander and catcher Dave Gibson fired a strike to shortstop Mike Bateman nailing Hathaway for the final out of the 1974 campaign.

"We just tightened up I guess," said Bonita coach Dick Salomon. "We've never been here before (CIF playoffs) and they have."

"We were just tight. We settled down in the field and Billy (Bumstead) came in and did a super job, but we just didn't hit."

Bonita took a first inning 1-0 lead when starter Harold Drake (6-2) reached first on an error and moved around to third on a hit-and-run single to right by Bruce McNaught. Drake slid across home plate, head first, when Finley unleashed a wild pitch.

The Bulldogs retaliated quickly as Sid Sarfaty walked and Dan Anady singled. Frazier, a .413 hitter this season, singled to left to scored Sarfaty. An infield ground out scored Anady to give the hosts a 2-1 lead. Rick Ortega knotted the game in the third when the Bearcat center fielder (.330) leveled a 3-1 fastball over the left-center field fence 275-feet away from home plate. Ortega's second homer and 14th RBI of the season.

The Bulldogs came back quickly in the bottom of the third, scoring the title-winning run as Rick Baker was hit by a pitch, moved to second on a passed ball and to third on a wild pitch.

Frazier was then walked intentionally and Gibson followed with a single to right field.

Bumstead pitched the fourth, fifth and sixth innings allowing just two hits.

Rivers stars for Halos in beating Oakland, 4-3

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Mickey Rivers cracked a solo home run in the fifth inning to extend his batting streak to nine games Friday night as the California Angels beat Catfish Hunter for the first time in three years with a 4-3 win over the Oakland A's.

The Angels collected eight hits and scored single runs in each inning from the second through the fifth to halt Hunter's eight game victory string against them. The setback left Oakland a game ahead of Chicago in the American League West while the Angels jumped into third place with their third straight win.

Right-hander Dick Lange, making only his second start, yielded the first two runs to the A's as he went 6 2-3 innings to capture his first victory. Reliever Dave Sells finished up, allowing an eighth inning homer by Angel Mangual.

Hunter went the distance for the fifth time this season as he absorbed his fourth defeat in 11 decisions.

California's first two runs scored on ground outs. In the second inning Frank Robinson walked, Bob Oliver singled him to third and Joe Lahoud's grounder got the run home.

In the third, singles by Dave Chalk and Denny Doyle, plus a fielding miscue by Mangual set up a run that scored on Bobby Valentine's ground out. The Angels made it 3-0 in the bottom of the fourth when Lahoud singled with one out and Tom McCraw doubled him home.

The A's got their first run in the fifth when Bert Campaneris walked with one out and scored on Joe Rudi's double.

Rivers led off the bottom of the fifth with his second homer of the year. Deron Johnson's two out single brought home the second Oakland run in the seventh inning and chased Lange. Mangual added a solo homer in the eighth, his third of the year, as the A's lost their first game in five outings.

Chaffey High fails to lke in CIF action

By GRAHAM CROW

P-B Correspondent

ONTARIO — The rubber game between Citrus Belt foes Eisenhower and Chaffey, stretched the season for the Eagles but snapped all CIF hopes for the Tigers as Eisenhower grabbed a 4-2 win.

It was the third meeting of the two teams after they tied for second in the CBL and the loss was the first of the season for Chaffey's Larry Garcia.

After being named pitcher of the year in the CBL, Garcia was rocked for nine hits, three for extra bases, but only gave up one earned run.

The Tigers looked a little tight before the game and didn't have their normal sharpness in the pre-game drills with coach Jim Semon. And troubles began immediately as Chaffey committed two errors in the first frame.

Garcia can't complain about the defensive support, however, since he was the one who made both errors. The initial one came when he failed to touch first base after receiving a throw from first baseman Jay Rogina and then, following a single, he threw wild to second on an attempted force play.

The junior lefthander settled down and gave up only one run as Eisenhower couldn't score again despite having the bases loaded and no one out.

Chaffey also left the bases full in the first inning but added single runs in the next two innings for a 2-1 lead. Rod Weigand and George Bjorkman, the other All-CBL representatives for the Tigers, got the RBIs.

Eisenhower took the lead for good in the fifth with a pair of unearned runs. Anthony Munoz had Keith Gulla's bounce go off his glove to lead off the frame and Tim Meija swatted him home with a long triple to left.

Meija, bolstered by the announcement of his selection as CBL Player of the Year, put on quite a show for the spectators at John Galvin Park as the junior second baseman went 4-4, drove in two and scored a third.

The victory went to relief ace Dave Rucker, who picked up for starter Kevin Steinmetz in the third. After coming in, Rucker retired 12 men in a row, before yielding a two out single to Munoz in the seventh. Rucker is now 11-1 for the year with eight saves.

Chaffey wound up the season with an 18-9 record while Eisenhower advances to the CIF semis with a 20-7 mark. The Eagles, only CBL team left after Redlands lost to Lakewood 1-0, face North Torrance (24-6) Wednesday.

 SALAS FIRES — Nogales' righthander Bobby Salas flashes his pitching form Friday in hurling the Nobles to a 3-0 CIF win over Upland and High in a contest played at Mt. San Antonio College.

Speed, Salas pace Nobles to 3-0 CIF win over Upland

WALNUT — Upland High fell to the Nobles' "SS Troops" Friday at Mt. San Antonio College.

In the Nobles' case, the "SS" stood for speed and Bobby Salas.

Nogales ran its way to three runs and Salas made them stand up, as he fired a one-hit shutout for a 3-0 CIF 3-A victory which eliminated the Highlanders from playoff contention.

The game shaped up to be a pitching duel between Salas and Upland's Steve Iles, and Iles did his part by pitching a three-hitter.

But Nogales used five stolen bases, and two key infield singles in a two-run third inning, to down the Highlander right-hander.

Upland's Mark Schneekloth led off the top of the first by bunting down the first base line and beating it out for a single.

As things turned out, Schneekloth's bunt was the only hit on the day for Upland.

Iles got out of a first-inning jam when he got Salas to ground into a double play with the sacks full, but was touched up for two runs in the third.

After one away, Bill Clark drew a walk. Mario Rojas followed with an infield single behind second base, and Dean Olson moved both runners along with a ground out.

Upland elected to walk power-hitting Lew Johnson to load the bases, thus bringing up Salas again.

This time the Nobles' hurler grounded a ball sharply up the middle. Second sacker Steve Smith knocked it down, but the Nobles' runners were off with the pitch and both Clark and Rojas scored on the play.

Salas survived a walk and Nogales' error in the second, and from that point he was in complete control.

The senior right-hander, who was named as the Montview League's Most Valuable Player, fanned 10 Highlanders and allowed only five baserunners.

"Salas is the best we have faced all year," said a somewhat dejected coach Herb Christian after the game. "He really put us down."

Christian also announced that this was his final game as baseball meter at Upland.

"After 16 years, I decided it was time to step down," he explained.

The Highlanders finished with a 20-7 season mark and a 12-2 league record, and reflecting on those statistics Christian decided that "it was a good way to go out."

Nogales, now 25-4 on the year, will face El Segundo (a 10-2 winner over Lynwood) next week for the CIF 3-A crown. The Nobles have yet to allow a run in three CIF playoff games.

Kings drop farm club in Portland

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Prompted by the uncertain status of the minor-league Western Hockey League, the Los Angeles Kings have abandoned their WHL farm club in Portland.

The National Hockey League Kings confirmed Thursday that they will not manage the Buckaroos next year. Kings General Manager Jake Milford said the awarding of franchises to WHL cities by either of the two pro hockey leagues—the NHL or the World Hockey Association—could hurt the minor league teams.

"No one knows what the makeup of the Western Hockey League will be next year," Milford said. "It would be very nice to have our farm club in Portland but it's the overall uncertainty of the league."

Already, WHL cities Phoenix and San Diego have been awarded World Hockey Association franchises. In addition, the NHL is committed to award two franchises for the 1975-76 season.

Summer quarter horse racing is underway at Los Alamitos

Florida signs Cecil Turner

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — The Florida Blazers of the World Football League announced the signing Friday of eight players, including Chicago Bears kickoff return specialist Cecil Turner to a future contract.

Turner will play out his option with the National Football League team and join the Blazers for the 1975 football season. Turner, 30, is a graduate of Cal Poly SLO and was drafted by the Bears in the fifth round of the 1968 NFL draft.

With the Bears he returned 108 kickoffs for 2,616 yards and four touchdowns. He also caught 21 passes for 364 yards and two TDs.

JC track finals are tonight

BAKERSFIELD — Ten valley junior college track athletes are presently here ready to compete in the State Junior College Track and Field Meet.

Four competitors from Mt. San Antonio College, three from Citrus and three from Chaffey will be scheduled to see action tonight in the State Meet, beginning at 7 p.m.

The foursome from MSAC includes javelin thrower Dave Krogh, high jumper Steve Miller, pole vaulter, Walt Scroggy and Mark Lotich in the steeplechase.

The duo from Citrus include Rick Wilmoth in 100 and 220, Gary Costello in the discus and John Hall in the high jump.

Chaffey's threesome include triple jumper Tony Lewis, long jumper John Tigner and pole vaulter Matt Wagner.

Krogh, the national javelin throw leader in junior college competition this year with his 236-0, is favored to win the javelin again in the State Meet.

He won the Southern California championship last week-end at Chaffey College, hurling the spear 233-11.

Miller may have a shot at a title in the high jump, but the wrist injury which threw his timing off in the SoCal finals may get in his way again.

The MSAC freshman has cleared 6-10 several times this year, but could only record a 6-6 performance at the SoCal meet. Mountie coach Don Ruh, however, has claimed Miller jumped 6-8 during this week's practice while his arm was braced to his body.

Wilmoth, who has recorded one of the top three in the nation times this year in the 100 (9.3w), will have to duplicate that performance and also improve in the 220 (21.2) if he hopes to stay with the rest of the field.

He finished fourth in the SoCal finals in both events with the 21.2 and a 9.5—both wind-aided.

Lewis has been steadily improving all year long in the triple jump, and he just is in thick of things if he continues to do so.

The Chaffey sophomore leaped 49 feet, 5 1/4 inches to place third in the SoCal finals. He has already pushed his own school record from 47-1 to 49-5 1/4 just this year.

"I think we have a fine group of veteran drivers who will observe the rule and avoid the one lap penalty imposed by a jockeying infraction. This isn't to say they can't move up if a car in front is experiencing mechanical difficulty."

"I've warned everyone about the penalties, particularly the seven rookies in the lineup. I'll emphasize it at Saturday's drivers' meeting."

Safety precautions in effect at race time include the positioning of eight ambulances, 12 fire trucks, eight men in each of the three corners of the Speedway and 100 firemen with hand extinguishers in the pits.

Further safety measures taken earlier in the year include the maximum allowance of 40 gallons of fuel, smaller wing spans, a uniform 32-inch height of the concrete wall surrounding the racing surface and a lengthening of the pit area to 2,200 feet to accommodate speeding cars making necessary stops.

Bob Newton goes to Sun

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Chicago Bears' lineman Bob Newton has signed a contract to jump to the World Football League Anaheim Sun for the 1976 season.

A Sun spokesman said the 24-year-old guard will play for the National Football League Bears during the 1974 and 1975 seasons before joining the Anaheim club the following year.

Newton, a 6-foot-4, 255-pounder, joined the Bears in 1971 and became a starter the following year.

Wanda faces top fillies at Hollypark

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Wanda makes her Hollywood Park debut against eight of the West Coast's top fillies and mares Saturday in the $38,950 Hawthorne Handicap.

Challenging Wanda in the seven-furlong race will be Belle Marie, Tallaho, and Belle Marie, Sister Fleet, That's Show Biz, Sleek and Fleet, and Mismoyola. With nine starters, the winner's share would be $23,200.

Wanda, coming off an impressive third-place performance in last week's Vagrancy Handicap at New York, is considered the favorite with her light impost of 117 pounds. Heliodoro Gustines will be in the saddle.

Belle Marie, winner of the Santa Ana Handicap at Santa Anita this year, has been assigned the high weight of 120 pounds. Veteran Bill Shoemaker will ride Belle Marie.

Lafit Pincay, the meet's leading rider, will handle Tallaho, while Howard Grant will ride Lt's Joy. Alvaro Pineda will be aboard Sister Fleet, Rudy Rosales will ride That's Show Biz, Frank Olivarez will ride Sleek and Fleet and Wayne Harris has drawn the assignment on Mismoyola. Steve Valdez and Sweet Greek round out the field.

Raising funds Soccer players to play in Austria

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

CLEARMONT — A group of 18 Southland high school soccer players will be touring Europe this summer under the guidance of Clearmont High coach Otto Rieger—with one big "if."

The star-studded squad is slated to play in the International Schoolsport Federation (ISF) championship soccer tourney in Vienna, Austria June 22 through June 25.

But the biggest foe the team is facing right now is Ol' Mister Dollar.

To finance the trip, each youth on the team must raise $800 to cover expenses of the European tour.

Local preps include David Segura of Ganesha, Rick Davis of Damien, and no less than five Clearmont High boosters. Jesus Chavez, Gesner Do Carmo, Ralph Hawes, Gregg Kaufman and Jim VanZee will be representing the Wolfpack.

Ron Thomas, ex-Clearmont star now attending Pomona College, is also on the team.

Other team members include Pete Adamson of the CIF champion South Torrance squad, Abel Dorado of Santa Ana, and Herman Pimentel of Baldwin Park.

For each of these athletes, the $800 figure must be met. Needless to say, it's a tall order, but under the direction of Rieger and the Southern California United Soccer Club (which promotes the team) fund-raising drives are being conducted.

One of the biggest promotions involving the team will occur Memorial Day. On Monday, the SCUSC squad will meet the Aztec Juniors in a 12:30 preliminary to the L.A. Aztec-Vancouver pro soccer game. The contest is to be played at East L.A. College.

Tickets for this match are available from Rieger or assistant coach Bill Vaskis, and the Aztecs have agreed to donate a given amount of the ticket price to the funds needed for the tour.

Each school having players selected to the team is also sponsoring fund drives, so it is hoped that the money will be raised by the time the team departs for Europe on June 19.

For example, Clearmont High has slated a pot luck dinner at Pomona College's Taylor Hall on Thursday to raise money, and the school has also been conducting a raffle sale for chances to win a Peugeot bicycle.

Anyone interested in Aztec tickets, the pot luck dinner, or in just donating to help the SCUSC team get to Europe is invited to contact Rieger at (714) 593-1452 or Vaskis at (714) 621-1209.

Donations can also be made directly to the participants' school, and all donations will be tax-deductible if made payable to the Southern California United Soccer Club, Inc.

JIMMY WYNN . . . helping Dodgers

NEWPORT BEACH — (NEA) — The veneer has been stripped back to expose the raw lumber. There's no doubt in Gary Davidson's mind what the World Football League is all about. It isn't sport.

It's business. Which, in his mind, is why there should be a WFL.

"If it's economically feasible," he says, "and you can create a market and create a demand, then it makes sense to do so."

And so in the last year, Davidson, opportunist-entrepreneur, has created a 12-team professional football league on top of an already existent 26-team National Football League and hasn't the slightest compunction about its feasibility.

"There are 15 additional markets," he expounds, "which do not have pro football that I consider major league-like Seattle, Phoenix, Jacksonville, Birmingham, Portland, Toronto, San Antonio—that have major league characteristics if you compare them to cities that now have major league teams."

"Orange County, which people think of as a stepchild to Los Angeles, has 1.3 million people and is a major area. The Rams are not an Orange County product."

Gary Davidson is. And he has his league headquartered there in upcrust Newport Beach on the ocean. It helps his perennial southern California tan. Davidson is fast-talking (literally) 39-year-old lawyer with moderately long blondish locks (at least longer than those of NFL counterpart Pete Rozelle) who has carved out a niche for himself as a sports hustler.

He was in on the founding of the American Basketball Association as its first president and operator of the now defunct Dallas franchise. He was out in a year. "Since I live in southern California," he explains, "the logistics were such there was no way I could have stayed involved."

He put together the World Hockey Association and was its first commissioner. He had never seen a hockey game. He was out after one year. "People talked continuously of moving the office to Toronto or New York," he explains, "and I would not move out of southern California."

At least, he's committed to the WFL for two years (with an option for two more years.). He claims that more than $15 million has already been expended to get his new league going. His own commissioner's office was funded from the $50,000 down payment by each franchise. Another assessment will be laid on them June 1.

In this latest venture into sport-business, Davidson adopted one tactic which gave his league instant clout—at least as far as people recognizing he was around. The WFL signed players already under contract to another league, the NFL.

"I think the American Basketball Association made a drastic mistake," he says in retrospect, "in not signing future contracts immediately. If I were going to start a shipbuilding company, I would contract for steel and ore and things like that."

So Toronto, now Memphis, shelled out $3 million for three Miami Dolphins, and other teams followed suit, which eventually caused NFL teams to seek injunctions to stop such raiding but which doesn't perturb Davidson.

"They're saying," he rationalizes, "that thirteen hundred players have to be unemployed before they can negotiate a contract."

Davidson has this little boy's face and chirpy voice which throw people off, and when he's in the throes of expounding, his words often run together. He's also a persuasive optimist who visualizes the WFL becoming truly a world venture by next year with teams in Mexico City and maybe Tokyo ("which would involve a scheduling problem"). He's not worried about paucity of talent.

"I'm amazed at how many good players there are," he gushes. "I was in hockey, where there's only twenty-million people supplying all the hockey players. A bigger player pool is available in football because there are more teams, which increases the size of the working force."

The haste in putting the WFL together, with training camps about to start and a scheduled July 10 season opener, has caused some wonder about the hurry. Especially since some franchises aren't even stabilized (in mid-May there was still conjecture the Virginia club would be sold to an Orlando group).

"There's a funny thing on ventures," explains Davidson.

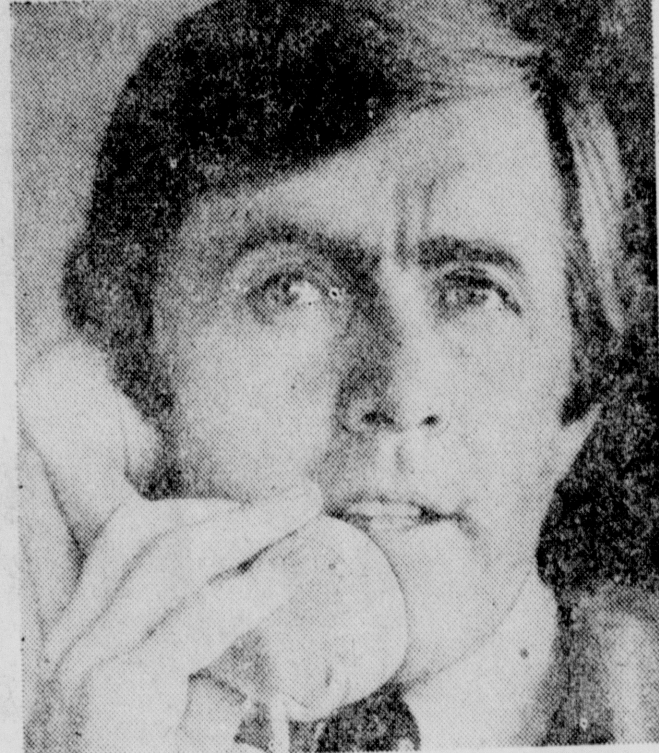

"If you take a busy man and ask him to do something, it usually gets done. We knew we had a very short fuse and a lot of things had to be put together very fast. We felt we could accomplish more on a hectic schedule."

There is even a television contract with an independent syndicator which has big automobile and insurance sponsors already lined up. Davidson expects each club to make $100,000 from national and local TV and radio rights this year.

He expects three teams—Jacksonville, Birmingham and possibly Memphis—to make money in '74. Others will lose up to $1.5 million. He figures the potential loss is balanced out by the fact that franchises which originally cost $550,000 are now selling for $1.5 million and up.

To Gary Davidson, it all adds up to dollars and cents in his little world of football, with one exception:

"It's more exciting," he says blandly, "than running a cement factory."

GARY DAVIDSON . . . WFL leader

Aztecs back home for Monday game

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Aztecs will be seeking their fourth consecutive victory at home against the Vancouver Whitecaps at 3 p.m. Monday at East Los Angeles College Stadium.

The Aztecs currently own the longest win streak at home of any team in the North American Soccer League.

Vancouver boasts one of the league's outstanding goalies in 27-year-old Sam Nusum. The veteran goalie had compiled an impressive 1.25 goals against average through the Whitecaps' first four games.

Nusum played for Montreal during the 1972 and 1973 seasons, compiling a 1.43 and 1.68 average.

Despite his outstanding start this season, Vancouver has suffered a string of narrow setbacks. The Whitecaps were involved in two tie breakers through their first three games, losing two of the overtime matches. The 5-10, 183-pound Nusum allowed the opposition only a single goal in regulation play through three of Vancouver's first four games.

Vancouver's defensive line is bolstered by Sam and Bobby Lenarduzzi. They are two members of the Lenarduzzi family of Vancouver. Four of the brothers play professional soccer.

The Whitecap front line is sparked by 22-year-old Glen Johnson, a native Canadian who was the first player signed by Vancouver. Johnson has playing experience in England with English Football Association Cup champion West Bromwich Albion.

Earlier this year, Johnson was the leading scorer in the British Columbia Soccer League with 19 goals in 12 games for Pegasus, including four goals in a Cup match. In 1973, he scored 18 goals in 15 games.

"Vancouver has already proven it's a very strong team," says Aztec coach Alex Perolli.

"They played even with San Jose and Miami before losing in overtime and then they lost only 1-0 to Toronto in Toronto."

"Those are three of the strongest title contenders in the league. Vancouver definitely faced the roughest early-season schedule of any team in the league."

"They are a very dangerous opponent for us. I really feel we are facing the toughest opposition right here in our own division."

Vancouver coach Jim Easton, a 3-year veteran of the Scottish first division, is equally impressed with the Aztecs.

"They're very dangerous up front," says Easton. "The Aztecs forward line is what impresses me the most."

"I saw them against Universidad and I knew they were going to do well during league. It doesn't surprise me that they jumped out to an early lead in our division race. The four games against the Mexican teams helped them get the edge on the rest of us. And they're playing very well right now."

The Aztecs have placed goalie Kelvin Barclay and forward Leo Brewster on waivers. Barclay was the starting goalie for the Aztecs through their first seven games. Brewster saw action during the four-game international series against Mexican first-division competition but has seen little action in North American Soccer League play.

Barclay had captivated Aztec fans with his sensational diving style but Aztec Coach Alex Perolli said the style was responsible for Barclay's leaving the team.

"It's a very dangerous style," says Perolli. "It's cost us very much already. And although we were fortunate to remain undefeated, we were close in games we should've won walking away."

Extra races scheduled at Caliente

TIJUANA — The thoroughbreds will add an extra day to the usual weekend card at Agua Caliente with the addition of the Normandy Stakes, an allowance race for four year olds at the six furlong distance along with 11 other races on Monday.

The stretch version of the regular weekend card will give Caliente 36 races over the three-day period.

"This is the equivalent of four racing days at most tracks," Jack P. Meyers, Director of Racing at Caliente stated from his offices when making the announcement. "It not only provides an additional day of racing for the fans but also allows the Caliente horsemen to have an opportunity for added income."

Today's event will be an allowance race for four year old horses and upwards, The Mexicali over the mile and a sixteenth route.

On Sunday, the Chula Vista feature will attract a field of sprinters going six furlongs.

The Memorial Day weekend will also unveil seating in the upper deck of the Caliente clubhouse for the first time. With the opening of upper level Clubhouse seats to the public the total seating capacity of the track at this time tops off at nine thousand.

Many other Caliente amenities are now completed and patrons can expect no delays at either mutual sellers or cashiers windows. Traffic at the border has run smoothly with little or no delays experienced in returning to the USA.

If a trend can be noted as the first month of racing at the recently opened Caliente draws to a close it must be that to date it has been a chalk players haven. Fifty per cent of the horses making the entrance into the winners circle have been the betting favorites.

Jockey H. K. "Duke" Wellington turned his heels to runner-up Curt Levine with whom he was waging a fierce battle for first place in the jockey standings this past weekend with seven winners in the two-day card moving him six notches ahead of Levine. Jose Mendez is close on Levine's heels with six junkies into the winners circle.

Post time at Caliente remains at 12:30 for the holiday card. Daily double wagering is slated for races two and three; and the chance for the big payoff in the Caliente 5-10.

Modesto meet offering top sprint battle

MODESTO, Calif. (UPI) — First there was the "miracle mile" and now there is the "sprint supreme."

In case you came in late, the "miracle mile" was run a few years back with Marty Liquori upsetting world record holder Jim Ryun.

Track and Field experts still agonize over that race and many say there may never be another matchup the likes of a Liquori-Ryun.

So, naturally, they have turned elsewhere for a race of similar quality, and Tom Moore has obliged them with an Ivory Crockett-Steve Williams pairing here today in the open 100-yard dash of the California Relays.

Crockett has been a top runner for a number of years now, but it wasn't until two weeks ago that he reached the heights, blazing to the world record in nine seconds flat.

In Williams, he will be meeting 1973's best in the world, and still regarded by many as the fastest anywhere.

Crockett and Williams are sprinters of contrasting styles. Whereas Crockett frequently gets out of the blocks quickly, Williams is a slow starter who doesn't accelerate until the final 50 yards.

"If Williams ever learns to get off quickly," said one self-styled expert on the scene here, "he could do 8.9 or even less. Frankly, I don't think there is a man faster than him and that includes Crockett."

"Strong competition, not a quick start, produces world records," says Williams. "I'm kind of looking forward to this race because right now Ivory is the best in the world."

While Crockett's official world record was set at nine flat, one of the timers caught him in 8.9.

While everyone is looking to Crockett and Williams for a new world record in the "sprint supreme," the winner very well could be someone else. Because the field here also includes Reggie Jones of Tennessee, who holds a win over Crockett and lost to Ivory in his record race at Tennessee.

The mile is another featured event on the Cal Relays program, mostly because Tony Waldrop, who has a best of 3:55, is here. Waldrop is unbeaten in nine starts this year and he faces probably his best competition of the year in the Cal Relays in South Africa's Daniel Malen, Wilson Waiga, Len Hilton and Paul Cummings.

There are only two relays races on this year's program — the 440 and the mile. California, Southern California and UCLA of the Pac-8 are the top teams in the shorter race while Baylor and Southern Cal are the favorites in the longer event.

C-M's Akiyama 4th in marathon

ARCADEPHIA, Ark. — Wayne Akiyama of Claremont-Mudd finished fourth in the marathon Thursday, which opened the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Track and Field meet at Henderson State College here.

Akiyama ran the 26-mile, 385-yard course in 2 hours, 30 minutes and 49 seconds — nearly five minutes behind Lucien Rosa's meet record pace of 2:22:54.1.

Sports parade

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jim Wynn still keeps chewing on that toothpick.

It's about the only thing he brought with him from Houston. "Here, this is from me to you," he said, handing over his old Astros' jacket to the clubhouse boy the day he reported to the Los Angeles Dodgers at Vero Beach, Fla., three months ago. "I don't ever wanna see that thing again."

Jim Wynn had grown tired of the Houston Astros after 11 years and they in turn had become tired of him. Last season, one in which Wynn managed to drive in only 55 runs and hit .220, helped both principals grow a little more tired of each other.

A change had to be made. That was clear. It was made at the winter meetings in Houston last December when the Dodgers got Wynn from the Astros, and the only other baseball change that can possibly compare with it is the one which sent Reggie Smith to the Cardinals from the Red Sox.

With the season barely seven weeks old, Wynn already has driven in nearly as many runs for the Dodgers as he did all last year for the Astros. His 41 rbi's going into Thursday night's game with the Giants made him the National League leader and his 14 home runs were tops in both leagues. Moreover, that .319 batting average of his is far better than anything he has ever finished with in his entire professional lifetime.

Astros way down

Obviously, considerable credit for the way the first-place Dodgers have virtually divorced themselves from the five other clubs in their division has to go to the stocky, fivefoot-nine Wynn, and what makes his performance all the more subject for general conversation in the dugouts is that the Astros are fifth in the same division as the Dodgers, much closer to last place than they are to first.

The Los Angeles fans love Wynn. It's mutual. He not only is ga-ga about them, too, but everything else concerning his new environment.

"Beautiful," says Jim Wynn when you ask him how he's finding life with the Dodgers.

"Everything about this ball club is first class. The guys are friendly, the manager knows what he's doing, and it's entirely different than it was in Houston."

Different how?

"Togetherness," says Jim Wynn. "That's the main difference here. On this ball club, everybody is for one another, together, you know what I mean? With the Astros, there was too much individualism. They were not together as a team. Everybody wanted to go his own way. Look, Houston has a great bunch of guys. Lee May was my best friend. But as far as telling themselves they can win, it was impossible."

The Mets as well as the Dodgers were after Wynn, but the Mets didn't want to give up two of their pitchers for him. Neither did the Dodgers at first—but they finally did.

Dave Culpepper, a 23-year-old right-handed minor league pitcher, was really the man who swung the deal.

Wanted more

The Dodgers first offered lefthander Claude Osteen even up for Wynn. Osteen is a fine pitcher, but the Astros wanted more.

Al Campanis, the Dodgers' vice president in charge of player personnel, and his opposite number with the Astros, Spec Richardson, were at one of the sessions in Houston when Richardson said to Campanis he would make the Wynn deal if the Dodgers would throw in Culpepper, a 23-year-old right-hander who had pitched for Albuquerque and Waterbury last season.

Campanis said he'd have to check with Bill Schweppe, the Dodgers' director of minor league operations. Schweppe advised Campanis to go ahead and make the deal.

The Dodgers have been trying to get Wynn for three years now. They're delighted at the way things have worked out but it should be remembered they felt this same way shortly after they got Dick Allen and Frank Robinson, only to deal both after one season.

Campanis recalls the first time he made a mental note to get Wynn if he possibly could. It was at one of those golf tournaments for ballplayers in Palm Springs and Wynn told Campanis he wished he were with the Dodgers because he had always liked their organization.

Wynn's foursome was directly behind the one Campanis was playing in. On the first tee, Campanis hit one of his infrequent good ones—dead straight and well over 200 yards. Because he was in a slower group, Campanis decided to let Wynn and his partners play through, and Wynn drove first.

"I couldn't believe it," says Campanis. "He hit one 70 yards farther than mine, and I thought I had hit a pretty good drive. I knew he could hit a baseball, but this was plain ridiculous. The drive he hit that day merely added to my conviction that here was a little guy with much more power than a lot of big ones."

Houston Oilers lose money

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Houston Oilers, who had 1-13 seasons two years in a row for the worst record in the National Football League, said Friday the club lost almost a half million dollars in 1973.

The Oilers also said they were raising ticket prices for the 1974 season.

An Oilers' spokesman said owner K. S. "Bud" Adams announced the $459,281 loss to show the financial realities of professional football and to discourage local support of the newly-formed Houston Texans of the World Football League.

NBC to feature old ballparks

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Broadcasting Co. will add a touch of nostalgia to its "Baseball Game of the Week" Monday night with a pre-game feature on the abandoned and demolished ballparks of the National League.

With a musical background of Frank Sinatra's "There Used To Be A Ballpark," Joe Garagiola takes a nostalgic tour back through the glory days of Connie Mack Stadium, Ebbets Field, the Polo Grounds, Forbes Field and Crosley Field with the great moments of those ballparks replaced by the wrecking cranes and steamshovels.

The special will be the feature of Garagiola's usual pre-game show.

Harvey Haddix remembers night of his perfect loss

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Harvey Haddix can still see it now—that night 15 years ago when he pitched 12 perfect innings for the Pittsburgh Pirates only to lose to the Milwaukee Braves in the 13th.

"I never have a chance to forget that night (May 25, 1959)," Haddix said in a telephone interview from his farm home in South Vienna, Ohio. "I get four or five letters a week from fans commenting on that game. I answer all letters and send along a picture postcard."

It's always "that game" for the 48-year-old Haddix.

"There was lightning and strong winds in County Stadium that night," he recalled. "I remember telling my teammates in the clubhouse just how I planned to pitch. I would pitch high to this batter, low and away to another...and so on."

"Don Hoak, our third baseman, said 'Harve, if you pitch the way you say you will, you'll have a no-hitter.' Everybody laughed and we headed for the field."

Haddix, a southpaw, met Braves pitcher Lew Burdette head to head.

"Oh, we had several chances to win," Haddix said. "Ramon Mejias made a base running mistake by failing to go from first to third on a single. Had he gone to third he could have come home because the next batter hit a long fly.

"Then my roomie, Bob Skinner, belted the ball over the fence. But the high winds blew the ball back and Hank Aaron just reached up in right field and caught it."

Ironically, it was Hoak's throwing error that led to the Braves' winning run in the 13th. Hoak fielded Felix Mantilla's grounder and threw to first baseman Rocky Nelson. The ball eluded Nelson and Mantilla was the first Brave to reach first base. The Pirates argued Mantilla had turned toward second and was tagged out but they were overruled.

Eddie Mathews sacrificed Mantilla to second. Aaron was purposely walked.

Joe Adcock, with a 1-0 count, smacked the ball over the right centerfield fence, Mantilla scoring. But Aaron ran across the pitcher's mound instead of circling the bases and was passed by Adcock who went past third. Adcock was ruled out for passing the runner between second and third and was credited with a double instead of a homer. The final score was ruled as 1-0.

"I knew right along I had a no-hitter but I did not realize I had a perfect game. I had excellent control but—we didn't win," Haddix said.

Haddix accepted Hoak's error "as a break that was bound to happen."

"Don and I were the last to leave the clubhouse," he said. "When we were in a cab Don said to me 'Harve, I've made a lot of errors and I'll make more. But I also will make good plays for you.' It was not an apology—that was not necessary."

Pirate Manager Danny Murtaugh, recalling that stormy night 15 years ago, said, "When Harvey came to the bench after nine innings, we mobbed him. And for the next three innings—there was no one seated on the bench. We were all on our toes, cheering him on."

Haddix farms 232 acres about 90 miles northeast of Cincinnati, adjacent to farms owned by his two brothers.

"I raise mostly corn, some wheat, soy beans and hay," he said. "I have about 150 head of beef cattle and some hogs. I'm dickering with my brothers to buy some of their land. That'll give me 465 acres."

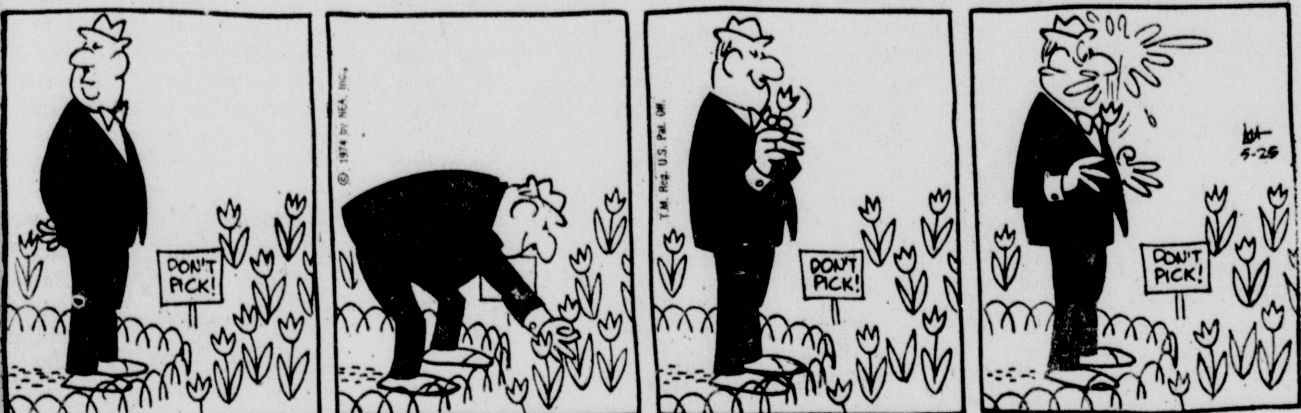

"You know, often when I'm working in the fields—I'll start thinking about that game."

Wives drive cars at night

Another masculine affliction, transmitted by the ladies but not suffered by same, is night blindness. Among retired couples, the woman drivers outnumber the men drivers, considerably. Whether night blindness has anything to do with this fact I can't say. Possibly. Anyhow, the record shows that after age 60, numerous gentlemen turn the piloting of the family car over to their wives.

Again am asked the difference between a hobo and a tramp and a bum. Has to do with attitude. About jobs. Attracted by work, a hobo wanders toward same. Repelled by work, a tramp wanders away from it. Indifferent to work, a bum just lies down alongside it. Such is the general understanding among men of the road.

WHALE

Q. You listed the elephant as the mammal with the longest gestation period — from 20 to 23 months. What about the great blue whale?

A. Figure only about 12 months for that whale, sir.

That most famous of all sex experts, Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey, wrote 19 works about wasps. They came out over the years before his renowned sex studies. Mention this in response to a client's inquiry about Dr. Kinsey's background. He was an Indiana University biology professor who specialized in the study of insect genetics.

"What happened to the dirt dredged out when the Panama Canal was dug?" asks a customer. About 300 dump trains carried it off to be used as fill for swamps, the Gatun Dam and a causeway on the Pacific side.

LOVE AND WAR

It's the insistent claim of one matrimonial counselor that when a husband's and wife's ages are within four years of each other, it makes absolutely no difference whatsoever who's the older. In the matter of how happy they'll be with their marriage. Good. But if the husband is more than 10 years older than his ladyfriend, that's not so good, these experts aver. Odds run four to one in such cases against matrimonial contentment. And if the wife is more than five years older than the husband, that's no good, either. Odds there run nine to one against that thing called happiness.

Half the people nationwide are down sick more than 16 days a year.

Identification isn't really the problem

By DR. FRANK MILLER
DEAR DR. MILLER: It's happened again — my parakeet, Crowbat, got away. I chased after her and she flew less than a block and was willing to come back to my shoulder. That was because it was so cold, I think. Otherwise, I would have had as much trouble as I did last summer when she got away. Took me a week to find her and get her back. What I want to know pretty soon is the best way to identify her to strangers. Should she have an ID tag on her neck, or would one of these identification bracelets be better? Or would the tattooing system be the best. I'm going to get her identified some way. — D. D.

Hard Luck Joe doesn't count

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Hard Luck Joe played slowly, carefully and ineffectively. Each card was played ceremoniously and accompanied by what was supposed to be intense concentration.

Eventually, Joe came down to a four-card ending. He was holding three diamonds and a trump, as was dummy. West held two diamonds and two clubs and East four diamonds.

Joe should have known this. East had shown out on the third club so that West had started with eight clubs. West had played two hearts and shown out and held exactly one trump. This left him with two other cards that had to be diamonds.

Joe had been playing slowly but instead of counting the hand he had been thinking about the king of diamonds. He thought some more led a low, diamond and covered West's jack with dummy's queen. East took his king, led a diamond back, and collected 100 points instead of paying off.

Joe complained about bad luck, but as usual the loss was due to bad play. If Joe had known that West held exactly two diamonds he could have played the ace first and let West hold the second diamond trick. West would have had to lead a club and give Joe a ruff, discard, game, slam and rubber.

Cells' reproduction depends on the cells

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read in an article in a newspaper that every cell in a person's body reproduces itself every seven to eight years. Do you have any way of checking on this? If so, will you please give me any information you have about it?

DEAR RADER — That is another one of those half-truths that is constantly repeated. The truth is some cells never reproduce at all. Some cells reproduce when they are needed to replace a damaged cell and still others reproduce constantly.

A good example of continuous reproduction is the case of the red blood cells. Did you know that your body manufactures about three-million new red blood cells every second? It also destroys red cells at that rate. An average red blood cell only lasts about 120 days. So, normally you always have a lot of fairly young red blood cells in your body, not "tired blood."

The lining of the small intestine is completely replaced every three days. The old cells, incidentally, are digested and the protein in these cells used just like the protein in your food. Our body is a great recycling machine far ahead of our primitive ideas about recycling in our own environment. Even the iron-containing hemoglobin in those destroyed red blood cells is saved and used again to form new blood cells.

The cells of the skin are constantly being shed and replaced. So are the hair fibers. These must be rebuilt with new proteins.

The liver is a good example of an organ that can grow new cells if part of it is removed. If a lot of scarring occurs (cirrhosis) it may not be able to do so, but ordinary injury or surgical excision of part of the liver stimulates it to form new liver cells.

By contrast, muscles, vessels, tendons and brain cells cannot be replaced at all or at best only poorly. You can increase the size of muscle fibers by training, but you won't increase the number of cells or replace old ones.

We are stuck with the number of brain cells we have, and as we get older the number of those in the cortex or thinking portion are fewer in number. Fortunately, we have a lot more than we usually need. But, it can become important as you get older. Brain cells damaged by excess use of alcohol on a long-term basis cannot be replaced.

There is much new interesting work, though, that indicates that living brain cells can learn to take over new functions. Thus, if a person loses the cells that control an arm there is the possibility that other cells can be trained to take over these functions. The possibility of training other brain cells for new tasks

Reagan signs flu shot bill for elderly

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill making it easier for California senior citizens to protect themselves against the flu was signed recently by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The measure (AB3157) by Assemblyman John E. Thurman Jr., D-Modesto, requires the state to provide flu shots free or at "minimal" cost to all Californians age 65 or older. It allocates $420,000 for the purchase of flu vaccine.

State health officials said part of the cost of the program, to be carried out by governmental or private non-profit agencies, would be offset by savings in Medi-Cal programs which currently pay for flu shots for some elderly residents.

Thurman said the $420,000 allocation would buy 700,000 doses of vaccine to be administered next year.

Russians look for their geese in U.S.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Russians are looking for 24 snow geese with green neck collars.

The Interior Department said that the collars were placed on them to make them easier for Soviet researchers to spot when they reach Siberia.

Both the United States and Russia are trying to study the birds' migratory habits.

The geese winter in California's Sacramento Valley and spend summers in Siberia.

'Defendants have edge'

Brownell for change in rape trial rules

UPLAND — Richard C. Brownell, a Republican candidate in the 65th Assembly District race, voiced his support of state legislation that would change evidence presentation procedures in forcible rape cases.

Speaking before members of the Kiwanis Club, Brownell said, "This is one felony where the defendants have a definite edge in the courtroom because many victims of rape cannot submit to the degrading cross-examinations that are currently permitted during the trial and in many cases the charge is dropped altogether and the rapist goes free because the victim will not appear as a witness and submit herself to such cross-examination.

"The proposed law," Brownell said, "would limit cross-examination to the case before the court and prohibit defense attorneys from prying into the entire private and personal life of the victim."

Dolan puts priority on better, safer schools

UPLAND — Better education at less cost to parents and safer education for students will receive his top priority as assemblyman, Tim Dolan, Republican candidate for the 65th District, told a recent group of supporters here.

Charging that "too much money allotted for education is going toward administrative overhead instead of into the classroom," Dolan outlined a program that includes smaller class size, better, educational aids and measures to increase the safety of students and faculty.

He called on state and local communities to take urgent action to halt increasing school violence, with a tougher attitude toward youthful criminals.

Dolan noted an increasing number of parents have moved or placed their children in private schools to avoid violence in local schools. "This state of affairs," he said, "is an injustice to these families whose taxes have paid and are paying for schools they feel their children cannot safely attend. It is a further injustice to those families who cannot afford such alternatives."

Highway fund spending

Axlerod hits lobbies' opposition to Prop. 5

ALTA LOMA — Gene Axlerod, a Democratic candidate in the 65th Assembly District race, sharply criticized special interest groups opposing Proposition 5 on the June ballot.

Speaking before political science classes at Chaffey College recently, Axlerod said, "the oil companies and the auto clubs have for years fought vigorously against any attempt to use highway trust fund monies for any purpose other than the construction of more and more freeways. These special interest groups have kicked in large sums of money to propagandize and oppose prior initiatives which were designed to accomplish the same objective that the passage of Proposition 5 will accomplish.

"I the past I have supported attempts on both the federal level and state level to break the highway trust so that we can utilize the hundreds of millions of dollars paid into these trust funds by motorists to develop alternative modes of transportation and to solve the air pollution problem which grows increasingly worse in the territory of the 65th Assembly District."

4 at Chaffey win student grants

ONTARIO — Four seniors at Chaffey High School have received scholarship grants, amounting to $400, from the Student Service Center.

They are Ralph W. Ashbaugh Jr., Don Magill, Alma Lupe Sandoval and Mary Ann Uden.

Center coordinator Frank Vidauré and Mrs. Andrea Smith, college and scholarship counseling committee members, announced names of recipients.

Vidauré said scholarship funds were raised through various activities sponsored by the center this year.

Temporary housing sought in 4 cities for French students

CLAREMONT — Homes in the Claremont, Pomona, Montclair and Ontario area are being sought for 40 students from France who will be attending Claremont High Aug. 1 through 31.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Herman of 1555 Elwood Ave., Pomona, Foreign Study League representatives, are searching for families to host the visitors, who will be sponsored by the league, an educational service of Readers Digest.

Host families are asked to provide room and board and to help arrange transportation to and from classes four mornings each week at Claremont High.

To aid in making room arrangements, the host families may choose the age and sex of their guests. Private rooms will not be required. Students will range in age from 18 to 22.

Persons unable to host a student may sponsor an activity or include a French student in a family outing. All of the visitors are college students and speak English well, Mrs. Herman said.

In addition to classes at Claremont High, the visitors will enjoy a wide variety of planned outings and field trips.

"However," said Mrs. Herman, "their most valuable experiences and long-lasting memories will come from relationships they have formed with their American family."

Families and individuals interested in assisting in the program may contact Mr. or Mrs. Herman at 629-7033 from 4 to 6 p.m. or Mike Slovick at 985-4283.

Village of contrasts

BUENA PARK — Few places in Southern California can match Japanese Village for contrasts of serenity and violence, tranquil beauty and primitive savagery.

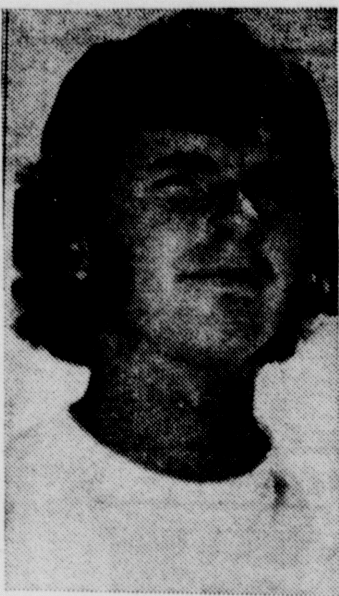

Here majestic black swans glide through a quiet lagoon; there a Royal Bengal tiger springs through a flaming hoop. Two fierce Samurai warriors lash at each other with swords, while nearby a pretty teishu (hostess) conducts the ancient ritual of Chanoyu, the Japanese tea ceremony. Gentle Sika deer nuzzle visitors for a treat, while Himalaya bears perform tricks on stage and Karate experts demonstrate their explosive art.

Japanese Village, owned by Six Flags, Inc., was patterned on the world famous Deer Park in Nara, Japan. When it opened in 1967, Japanese officials donated animals and artifacts representative of Oriental culture. (Six Flags also owns the nearby

Women educators cite six as 'outstanding citizens'

Beta Mu Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, an international honorary women educator's society, Wednesday honored six students and their guests at an awards reception and presented the students with citizenship awards.

Recipients are Mike Sampson, a graduate of Park Avenue High School; Gary Lett, Sally Paul and Miquel Castillo, students at Garey High School; and Patrick H. England and Gail Brown of Pomona High School.

TEACHERS

The students were chosen by their teachers and counselors for this recognition and honor.

Sampson, now working in Pomona, was an outstanding scholastic achiever his last year at Park Avenue, his teachers said. During the year he decided with other students to paint the home of a woman living across the street from the school.

After the painting was complete, Sampson continued doing the woman's yard work.

ART

Lett is one of the most exceptional art students at Garey. His teacher describes him as hard working, creative, imaginative and thorough. Art Department chairman John L. Finch said Lett is kind, considerate, polite and always pleasant, "works well with his peers and respects others for their individual rights."

Paul D'Alessio, chairman of the Garey Business Department, said Miss Paul has excelled in advanced typing, business machines and accounting classes. He described her as "able, industrious, self-directed, enthusiastic, considerate and cooperative."

LEADER

Castillo is "liked by faculty and students" at Garey, according to teacher-coach Phil Herrera. He is a proven campus leader, a successful organizer "whose strength always seems to spark the enthusiasm of others. He is always willing to give of himself for the good of friends and fellow students," Herrera said.

England has contributed time as a teacher aide for retarded children at El Camino school and for aurally handicapped children at San Jose school. He organized and serves as president of "Teens for Retarded Children" in affiliation with the YWCA. He does volunteer work in the Campus Life organization. He is active in Valley Community Theater.

FINEST

Miss Brown, senior class president and vice president of club council, is described as "one of the finest students on campus. She has demonstrated responsibility, sincerity and dedication. She is a humanitarian and a leader among her peers." She is a Candy Stripper at Pomona Valley Community Hospital, a member of Campus Life and is active in her church's youth group.

Royal Bengal tiger leaping through a flaming hoop is star of the Tiger Show at Japanese Village.

A village of contrasts

Movieland, Wax Museum and other amusement centers throughout the country.)

Each year since the village opened it has expanded its facilities and attractions, and this year is no exception. A new 2,500-seat Tiger Arena opened last month (fittingly since this is the Year of the Tiger) and an 800-seat Martial Arts Theater opened last week. The gaming area, featuring games of skill and chance, has been expanded, and a new dolphin feeding and petting area has been constructed at the end of the two-million-gallon, salt-water tank.

All the structures in Japanese Village are accurate replicas of buildings in the Land of the Rising Sun, and the pavilions, pagodas and teahouses and shops are joined by walkways of textured, imported tile. The walks wind through gardens of plantings and arrangements as they might be in Japan, and pools, waterfalls and quiet ponds add to the charm.

Since the village opened seven years ago, animals have always played a large part in the activities of visitors. Petting and feeding Sika, Fallow and Virginia deer are a popular pastimes. Hundreds of brightly colored carp in the lagoons can also be fed by hand, as can the doves that land on the visitor's shoulder or arm. The new dolphin area permits feeding of the Atlantic bottlenose dolphins native to Japan's inland sea.

Not all of the animals at Japanese Village are to be hand-fed by visitors. Here are Hokkaido bears, grizzlies, browns and Himalaya bears who perform tricks for the audience, and the tiger show, in which 10 Royal Bengal and Siberian tigers are put through a performance by trainer David McMillan. He is working up a new act with his wife, Chris, that will include an African lion, Siberian tiger, black leopard, cougar and spotted leopard.

The animals, in addition to entertaining guests, are used by McMillan to illustrate aspects of endangered species and to teach ecology. The special show, presented at 10:45 on weekday mornings, includes a rare female black leopard (often misnamed "black panther"), a cougar, Russian timberwolf cubs and a Siberian tiger, one of the most endangered species in the world.

The ecology demonstration is part of an active school program carried on at Japanese Village. A large number of schools send classes to the village to observe Japanese culture and life-style.

Human beings, as well as animals, perform for the entertainment of visitors. Seven karate masters,

ON THE COVER

A karate demonstration, a bicycling bear and a quiet lagoon illustrate three aspects of Japanese Village, 32-acre Buena Park amusement center. The village offers a wide variety of entertainment, including shows and demonstrations. The karate fighter is Fumio Demura, world champion fifth degree black belt master. On the bicycle is Fujiko, a two-year-old Himalaya bear.

Samurai warriors battle with real swords headed by world champion fifth-degree black belt master Fumio Demura, demonstrate techniques of oriental self-defense in daily shows. Elements of judo, ju-jitsu and kendo are also illustrated. A Samurai sword battle is staged with the "warriors" using real swords.

Contrasting entertainment includes the Japanese tea ceremony with its centuries-old traditions and movements, and Bon Odori Dancing, with authentic Japanese music and movement.

Japanese Village is now open daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. On June 15 the hours will change to 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily.

Admission is $3.75 for adults, $1.75 children four to 11, children under four free. Parking is 50 cents.

Joseph Kennedy bisected

By MYRON ROBERTS

JOSEPH P. KENNEDY: A Life and Times by David E. Koskoff. Prentice Hall. $10.

Three decades ago it was common for political writers of a conservative bent to refer to President Roosevelt as "Franklin The First." The assumption was that a president who had managed to win four straight terms in the White

(Myron Roberts is professor of English at Chaffey College.)

House and who was progenitor of a brood of politically active sons would surely seek to establish a liberal dynasty in the White House.

In a way that turned out to be true. But they had the wrong man. The man destined to become the true founder of the closest thing to a political dynasty in America was, at the time, largely unknown to the general public.

The man was Joe Kennedy, sire of Jack, Robert, and Ted. In a thorough, readable and carefully objective account of Joe Kennedy's life and times, David E. Koskoff disposes of many of the myths surrounding the elder Kennedy, and presents a convincing portrait of a shrewd businessman, a likeable human being, and a flawed politician.

Myth No. 1, still widely held in this country, was that Joe Kennedy arrived in America an ignorant and impoverished immigrant who proceeded to fight his way to wealth and fame.

Not so. Koskoff points out that Kennedy was born in a solid, upper-middle class home provided by Pat Kennedy (Joe's father), himself a successful businessman and a member of the Massachusetts Legislature.

By the time Joe was born, the Kennedys were solidly established as one of Boston's "best Irish families."

But "best Irish families" in that day was somewhat analogous to best Mexican-American or Black families today. One was liked, but not well-liked. One might be accepted on a business basis by the solid Protestant establishment, but it wouldn't do to try to marry one of their daughters, or even expect an invitation to their parties.

Thus, Joe Kennedy grew up with the advantages of money, an expensive education (including Harvard Business School), and a finely tuned competitive sense based, Koskoff suggests, upon a desire to put those WASPS in the places.

He also had a flair for the dramatic, a talent for making money, and an eye for the ladies. After making a bundle importing Scotch whisky, he turned to Hollywood where he became one of the producers of "schlock," trashy films designed to feed the public's taste for high adventure, low comedy, and pretty girls getting their clothes torn off in the right places.

He made money. He also seems to have made Gloria Swanson, the reigning beauty of the age, who became Joe Kennedy's coproducer, and cohabitor.

They made a series of terrible movies together, which lost money, but Joe managed to land on his financial feet through a tricky merger which left all of his associates, including Gloria, considerably poorer but Joe well on his way to becoming a multimillionaire.

From movies and the stock market, Kennedy moved to politics. Probably more out of antagonism to the overwhelmingly Republican Boston Establishment than out of sympathy for the New Deal, Kennedy became a prime money-raiser for the early Roosevelt campaigns.

As a reward for his efforts he was named head of the Securities and Exchange Commission, and did a good job in restoring some degree of order and public confidence in Wall Street.

Koskoff reports that Kennedy lusted after a cabinet position, preferably secretary of the treasury, but found himself blocked by labor leaders and New Deal militants who distrusted his business background. As a way out of the dilemma, FDR sent Kennedy off to the Court of St. James as Ambassador to Great Britain.

The Irish immigrant's grandson found himself, upon arriving on Albion's shores, treated like a visiting monarch. (England was getting ready to fight Hitler and looking for a loan.)

He was welcomed by the British Establishment, and invited to the very best homes. He rode to hounds with England's Elite. But England's Elite, in those days, turned out to be the infamous Cliveden set, which was busy cozying up to Hitler and laying plans for a Fascist England.

They took poor old Joe to the cleaners. He became convinced that he was destined to become America's next president; that he was under no moral obligation to carry out the wishes or instructions of the man whom he was supposed to represent.

He began making obscene references to the international Jewish conspiracy, was often seen with Nazi functionaries whose good-will he seemed determined to court. He became an embarrassment to the president.

Pearl Harbor brought an end to Kennedy's flirtation with Fascism as well as to his personal political career.

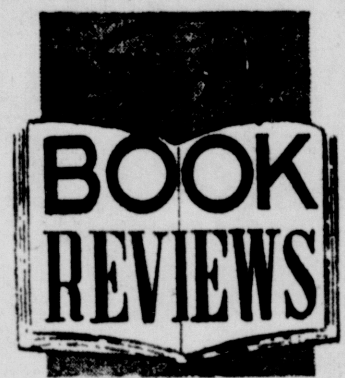

Joe came home, went into real estate and made hundreds of millions. He also began grooming his sons to do what he had failed to accomplish — become the first Catholic president.

Kennedy embodied the virtues of his time, energy, showmanship, soaring ambition, and the failings of his time; narrowness, racism, and a kind of unsophistication which undid him when he left the world of business and tried his hand at global politics.

He had the American genius for making money and the American weakness for status seeking. And he gave the country and the world the most universally admired (and hated) family to have emerged from the wreckage of World War II.

No new journalist, author Koskoff has done a careful and cool job of compiling what seems to be an objective account of a man and a time, carefully avoiding Mailleresque "factoids." His book has the scent of truth.

Well written story of suspense

By MARY BROWN

TRUTH OR DARE by Jacqueline Wilson, Doubleday, $5.95

This well-written suspense story leads one to believe that all the events happened as the result of fate or circumstance. If Claire Townsend's car had not been in for repairs when she had to go shopping that rainy afternoon. . . If Arthur Brown had not lost his job and become unbalanced. . . If Peter Townsend, impotent and jealous, had not been driven by his own insecurity. . . If the police officer investigating the Townsend's call had not been attracted to Claire, and vice versa. . . All of the 'if not's', however, were realities, and their combination resulted in a pathetic sexual assault, an unsatisfying illicit affair, blackmail, and finally murder.

While fate certainly played a large role in this story, the reader is not left with the feeling that what transpired could only have occurred in an author's imagination. I had no sense of "That's impossible!" about any of the events or the characters' reactions to them.

Jacqueline Wilson did create a very readable story about believable characters thrust into situations with which they could not cope. A comfortable, not too taxing, way to spend an evening or two.

Chess

Abrupt reversal

Although surprises are multifold on the chessboard, they are limited in frequency and degree by the prevailing circumstances. There are times when play vibrates with possibilities, some treacherous and difficult to see under game conditions. But there are also those instances when only gentlemanly procedure forbids a careless yawn.

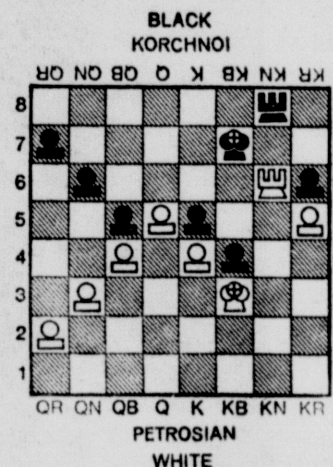

Those positions in between the two extremes can be the most dangerous for the player who tends to slough off a bit. For example in the situation given in our first diagram, white seems to have a clear edge. Black has two weak with 1 . . . R-N6 check, 2 . . . R-K6, which wins the king pawn.

But when I recently played over the game which this position is from, (Petrosian-Korchnoi, Moscow-Leningrad match 1963), I was pleased at Petrosian's actual move in the given position. He played 1. P-Q6, which increases the pressure and white's initiative. (Of course, black may not play 1 . . . RxR. After 2. PxR check, he will not be able to stop both of white's advanced passed pawns.) When I then glanced at the score to see Korchnoi's reply to P-Q6, though, my eyes wandered and I found myself startled to see the final result of the game, as given as "and white resigned."

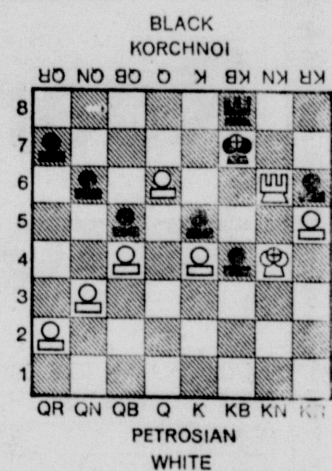

I quickly played through the remaining moves with impatient curiosity. This is what happened:

With 1. P-Q6, white had threatened 2. RxR and 3. P-Q7 etc. and queening. Black therefore answered 1. P-Q6 with 1 . . . R-KR1, protecting the king rook pawn, and white confidently played 2. K-N4, intending to follow with 3. K-B5 and 4. RxP. The wily Korchnoi played the very trappy 2 . . . R-KB1, and our second position was reached.

pawns to defend, i.e., the king pawn and the king rook pawn. White's rook is actively placed to combine threats against these pawns with aggressive play by his king.

It is true that white may not immediately play 1) RxRP. For black will answer

At Razzmatazz

Roaring 20s to roar again

POMONA — The Roaring 1920s may roar again in Pomona Valley next weekend with the opening of the Razzmatazz Restaurant, 2180 W. Valley Blvd.

The unique restaurant will operate on a reservations only basis to fit into the prohibition era speakeasy theme of the restaurant.

Reservations are a must because each customer must identify himself to "Big Al" the bouncer who checks out each visitor through a peek-hole slot in the entry door.

Waitresses will be attired as "flappers" and waiters as "gangsters."

Daud Alani, the owner, guarantees that the establishment will be raided by the police each night in mock demonstrations.

"We serve liquor in tea cups and have the audience participate in the police and gangster raids," the owner said.

"I take college students and make them actors and singers."

Alani also owns other restaurants in Anaheim and Tazana.

The Pomona establishment seats up to 200 customers and is located in the former Pomona Valley Inn. "I selected the Pomona Valley Inn because I felt there was a need in this valley for this type of entertainment," he said.

Cost of the dinner and the two-hour Razzmatazz Musical is $8.95 with special rates available for banquets and large parties.

The dinner menu includes relishes, dip and salad and main dishes; chicken with a special house sauce, "tidbits Al Capone" beef in a special burgundy and mushroom sauce and shrimp in a sauce with white rice and almonds. Coffee and dessert is also included.

Reservations may be made with "Big Al" by calling 629-8812.

The Roaring 1920s gang will serve dinner and present a program to entertain customers of the Razzmatazz Restaurant, 2180 W. Valley Blvd., next weekend. Cost of the two-hour show which includes dinner is $8.95 per person.

Daud Alani, center, owner of the Razzmatazz Restaurant gets the attention of three "flappers" who serve as waitresses.

Lower speed limit reduces traffic deaths

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The head of the National Highway Traffic Administration said Thursday preliminary figures for April show a 22.6 per cent reduction in traffic deaths from a year ago—a continuation of the trend brought by lower speed limits.

With the Memorial Day weekend approaching, Dr. James D. Gregory said, "We have a real opportunity this year to have stellar reduction in highway fatality injuries."

Last Memorial Day weekend 539 persons were killed during the three day period—generally a dangerous period on the highway because it is the first long weekend of warm weather.

Gregory said a good goal this year would be a death toll below 400.

Gregory said that preliminary figures for April showed a reduction in traffic fatalities from 4,448 in April last year to an estimated 3,444 in April this year.

During January and February the decline in traffic fatalities was about 23 per cent from corresponding months in 1973 and in March it was down 26 per cent from the previous March.

"The April figures indicate that the 55 mph speed limit continues to have a strong effect on highway death," Gregory said. Lower speed limits were put into effect last year to help fight the energy crisis.

Chess--an abrupt reversal

Petrosian then blundered terribly. He played 3. RxP?? whereupon Korchnoi responded with 3... P-B6 and the game has been decided. (See diagram three.)

There is no way of stopping the advanced pawn. If 4. KxP, then K-N2 and check! The double attack with discovered check wins the rook. Petrosian pathetically tried 4. K-N5. But after 4... K-K1, he resigned; the pawn is unstoppable.

Not surprisingly, white did have a way to win. Petrosian himself suggested after the game that the position after 1. P-Q6, R-R1 (as given in our last diagram), is a clear win for white, if it is black rather than white who is on the move. He could have contrived that situation, he said by plying 2. K-K2! After 2... R-R2, he would play K-B2! and then after 3... R-R1, he would play, finally 4. K-B3! Black is now on the move, as desired. After he plays 4... R-R2, white could play the variation he tried in the game. But this time the black rook can't get to the king-bishop-one square in time.

Both the losing and winning variations are elegant and instructive.

Teen scope Garey MGMs end survey on pooling

Eleven students in Garey High School's Research Career have completed their car pool survey, notified participating employees of the Pomona Unified School District of pooling possibilities available to them, and now are considering applying for a Presidential Merit Citation as a result of their environmental project.

The students are Cynthia Ayres, Stephen Benson, Thomas Carr, Ann Cornwell, Kinon Crawford, Lee Davenport, Stephanie Kahn, Patrick Kingrey, Shinichi Mori, Judy Mukai and Mary Skvarik.

Teacher Ginger Friedman is their adviser.

Last January the students, all enrolled in Garey's Mentally Gifted Minors Program, decided they wanted to learn research techniques.

With gas rationing a possibility, they chose forming car pools for district employees as their project.

During the past 4½ months, the students have learned a great deal about questionnaires and the people who do and do not fill them out.

They discovered that far fewer people respond to questionnaires than is hoped for. They noticed that questions appearing perfectly clear to the writer can be confusing to some readers. They obtained valuable insight into human nature from many of the comments written on the returned forms.

Without the aid of computers used by other organizations planning large-scale car pools, these Garey students managed to place several hundred school district employees in touch with each other.
